NAZIS FLEE SALERNO FRONT

Mass Invasion of Europe Will Begin 'At Right Time', Churchill Declares

DEFENDS ACTS OF ALLIES IN ITALIAN COUP

Says Mussolini Got Away Only Because Guards Failed To Kill Him.

REPORTS NEW SUB WAR

Prime Minister Asserts Allied Planes Nearing Domination of Air Over Germany.

(By United Press)

LONDON—Prime Minister Winston Churchill, strongly defending Allied military and political operations in Italy, told the house of commons today that "the time is coming" when the United Nations will open a European second front and "the mass invasion of the continent will begin."

Churchill emphasized that despite Russian demands that the second front in western Europe would be opened only "at what we and our American allies judge to be the right time." But he pointed out that important arrangements at Quebec and in London were "for a closely correlated policy and action between the Soviet Union and Great Britain and the United States."

A three-power conference among Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union will "take place at an early date," Churchill said, expressing the view that Britain should be represented by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

The prime minister—in a speech so long that it was interrupted for a luncheon recess—struck back at critics who had charged costly delay in the invasion of Italy and and fumbling in dealing with the Badoglio regime. He said Benito Mussolini was rescued by Nazi paratroopers only because his Italian guards failed to obey orders to shoot the former premier if necessary.

The prime minister said that Allied aerial power might achieve complete domination of Germany next year and that Allied sea and air power had scored a great tri-

Berlin Threatens The Vatican With Radical Measures

(By International News Service)

A direct threat to the Vatican was voiced today by the Berlin radio which attacked the "pacifism and anti-German sentiments" of the Holy See.

"Let the policy of the Vatican force us not to have recourse to radical measures," said the warning broadcast by the Berlin transmitter in the name of the Nazi-sponsored "National Republican Fascist Government."

Further tightening of the Nazi cordon around the Vatican City was disclosed at the same time in a brief broadcast by the Vatican transmitter.

"Owing to the circumstances beyond our control postal communication with our listeners continues to be interrupted," a Vatican announcer said.

The Berlin threat gave the

Wheeler Pins Bill's Hopes On Baruch

Counts on Testimony As Sentiment for Father Deferment Ebbs.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Lt. Gen. Joseph McNarney, deputy chief of staff, has informed the senate military affairs committee that the fathers expected to be drafted into the army by Jan. 1 in all probability will be the last to see active service.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — With support for the measure apparently ebbing, Senator Wheeler (D.,Mont.) counted heavily today on Bernard M. Baruch to dent the solid military front against his proposal to defer the father draft

Wheeler told reporters in advance of the scheduled resumption of hearings on the legislation he expected Baruch to criticize the reported "hoarding" of workers by war industries. The Montanan contends this has done more to put family heads in line for induction next month than any other one factor.

Baruch made such a criticism in his recent report to War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes. But at that time he said it would be unwise to exempt fathers in unessential occupations if it meant taking skilled workers from war industries.

The senate military committee voted yesterday to call Baruch as a witness on Wheeler's demand, but the time of his appearance remained in doubt. The Montana senator said he would not ask for debate on his bill until Baruch had been heard, probably tomorrow.

While Wheeler was inclined to discount its effect, the opposition voiced against his bill yesterday by Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander of the fleet, apparently damaged its chances of passage.

Senator Austin (R., Vt.) said he thought the testimony of the two military chiefs "shows the fathers draft measure ought not to pass."

Marshall told the committee in effect that the army had just arrived at a point where it is trained, equipped and prepared to deal deadly blows to the enemy all over the world. He insisted that nothing ought to be allowed to interfere with its planned increase in strength of 7,700,000 (including WACs) by the end of the year.

Fisher Wants Court To Order OK of Big Liquor Check.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Liquor Director Don Fisher said today he had formally requested Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert to institute mandamus proceedings in the supreme court to compel State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to approve a $1,000,000 voucher toward the purchase of 100,000 cases of whisky.

"As liquor director, it is my responsibility to maintain an adequate supply of liquor so far as possible," Fisher said. "The agreement by which we can obtain this volume of whisky was studied and found entirely valid by the attorney general. I propose, therefore, to proceed with the transaction."

Ferguson refused to approve the voucher yesterday on grounds the liquor still was to be bottled and that collateral advanced by Foster and Company, New York liquor dealer with whom the deal was made, was not sufficient.

Bricker Attends Governor's Dinner In Nebraska.

LINCOLN, Neb. — (AP) — Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio joined six other governors last night at a steak dinner served by Nebraska's chief executive, Dwight Griswold. "We don't want to tap Griswold's pork supply as he'll need the hogs to pay off his war bond debts," Bricker commented.

Griswold has bet a corn-fed hog Nebraska can exceed its third war loan quota by a greater percentage than 28 other states.

ORDERS SCHOOL BUILDING CHECK

Board Hires Researchers To Survey City To Determine Post-War Needs.

A survey to give the Mansfield board of education a basis for a post-war elementary building program was authorized last night by the board which set up $1,500 to finance the work.

The city's elementary school facilities and population trends will be examined during the winter by a staff of workers under the direction of Dr. T. C. Holy, director of the bureau of educattional research at Ohio State university. When the survey is completed, Dr. Holy will make recommendations for improvements in the system if he finds them necessary.

The proposed survey has been under consideration by the school board since last May when Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller first suggested it. He pointed out then that the northward shift of the city's population has overcrowded the Bowman school and made it necessary to transport pupils across the city to the Hedges building.

Supt. Miller indicated that another grade building in the northern part of the city may be the answer to the program, but he added that the survey will show whether one is needed there or in another part of the city to take care of the overflow of pupils.

Dr. Holy said he would submit a complete report of his survey to the school board before next June 1. The board then will be in a position to start mapping a post-war building program although the work wouldn't begin until after the war when it is expected that projects to provide jobs will be needed.

Dr. Holy made the city-wide survey in Mansfield in 1938 which led to the construction of the two new junior high schools, a shop addition at Senior high school, and modernization of the toilet facilities in several grade buildings.

WILLKIE RUNS

Tosses Hat In Presidential Ring With 'Liberal' Plea.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Wendell L. Wilkie's disclosure in Look magazine that he is willing to be the 1944 presidential candidate of a "liberal" Republican party was regarded today as the formal opening of a campaign for the nomination.

Willkie, who entered the last Republican convention as a dark-horse and came out with the nomination, said he was ready to give his "complete and undeviated service" to the GOP only "if the Republican party intends to drive heart and soul for liberal objectives."

While the article primarily acknowledged his willingness to accept the nomination, Willkie also pointed out he was ready to be "a worker in the ranks" for such a "liberal" party.

PLAN APPEAL FOR MARSHALL

Congress Leaders Ready To Plead Against Transfer of Chief of Staff.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders are contemplating today a direct appeal to President Roosevelt to retain General George C. Marshall as army chief of staff, despite a move by civilian "armchair strategists" to demote him by a transfer to a battlefield command.

Many congressional spokesmen blame the move to oust Marshall on "the British," including Prime Minister Winston Churchill, but high military sources say the incentive came from Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter. Editors of the Army and Navy Journal, which charged that "powerful influences" were out to "get Marshall," declined to identify his foes.

Rep. Jessie Sumner (R., Ill.) told the house that "the British are trying to get General Marshall kicked upstairs because he stands up for our American rights." She added the same influences were trying to "get rid of Admiral (William D.) Leahy for the same reason" and "keep General (Douglas) MacArthur from heading our war effort."

It is no secret within the New Deal that some civilian leaders are behind the effort to strip Marshall

5 PER CENT CUT MADE IN PAPER

Newspapers Ordered to Reduce Newsprint Use Still More.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Blaming manpower shortages in the pulpwood industry, the war production board has cut newspaper consumption of paper another 5 per cent for the last quarter of this year and Chairman Donald M. Nelson said greater curtailment was inevitable next year.

Even with this new cut, the publishers will be using newsprint at a rate exceeding production by 91,000 tons, Nelson said. By using up reserve supplies, "a further, perhaps far deeper" retrenchment is in store in 1944, he added.

WAR BOND SALE TAKES MILLION DOLLAR SPURT

County Total Hits $3,858,065 or 64 Per Cent of Goal of $6,060,000.

After two slow days with the smallest daily amounts of the drive reported, Richland county's Third War Loan drive took a sensational jump today and hit a total of $3,858,065.25.

With sales amounting to $1,048,602 reported for yesterday alone, the drive today was close to two-thirds of the way. At the present 60 per cent of the $6,060,000 goal is subscribed.

Ten large sales accounted for yesterday's huge figure. Five subscribers bought $416,500 worth of 2½ per cent treasury notes, four sales of 2 per cent treasury notes totaled $503,000 and one subscriber made a $100,000 purchase of seven-eighths per cent treasury notes.

A total of 337 subscribers added their purchases to the loan drive. Nearly 320 of these were E bond purchasers and their subscriptions totaled $14,380.50.

Chairman H. G. Brunner today warned Richland countians about slowing up on the job. He urged them not to think each one of the nine remaining days of the drive would bring in such huge amounts.

"We still have a big job ahead and the final days of the drive will be the toughest," Brunner said.

Meanwhile in Washington today, treasury officials said the "big money" drive of the 15 billion dollar national drive appeared to be over. They called for a new emphasis on the "door-knocker" campaign to spur individual purchases.

The national total now stands at $10,745,000,000.

In the state officials reported the goal 78 per cent subscribed with sales totaling $547,601,293.

Most sales in Ohio have been to large investors, State Chairman Roy D. Moore said, with only $29,000,000 of series E bonds sold. He urged individual income-earners to raise the bulk of the remaining quota through purchase of $100 bonds.

The warning was issued here by the state department. A similar announcement was issued in London.

The statement revealed that the two governments acknowledge that "certain concerns in neutral countries, in anticipation of the early occupation of Italy by Allied forces, contemplate acquiring or purporting to acquire enemy owned shares in Italian companies, and other enemy assets in Italy.

OKs Teacher's Pay Boost Of $25 Monthly For Rest Of '43

The Mansfield board of education at its meeting last night gave teachers and other employes the benefit of a 1943 school surplus by granting them pay increases of $25 per month for the three months ending Dec. 31.

Effective with the Oct. 1 pay, the increases will total $21,500 for the three-month period and bring the total salary boosts granted this year to $63,426.

Harold A. Bruce, chairman of the board's finance committee, submitted the proposal for increasing employes' pay, explaining that the board found it was going to have enough money left at the end of the year to make the $25 boost possible.

The board made no provision for carrying the increases through the 1944 portion of the present school year, but H. W. Arlin, president of the board, said

Showdown Battle For Naples Expected As Soon As Kesselring Can Re-form Lines; Allies Command Three Roads Into Gateway Port.

BULLETIN

WITH AMERICAN FIFTH ARMY, Italy—(UP)—A big Allied push which started 24 hours ago was well under way today and several more Italian towns—all of them of strategic importance—had fallen into American and British hands.

BULLETIN

LONDON — (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill disclosed today that American forces had landed on Sardinia. Addressing the house of commons, Churchill said the American forces landed to assist four Italian divisions who have driven the Germans off the Mediterranean island.

(By International News Service)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa — German forces on the Salerno battlefront wheeled into a sharp retreat today and the United States Fifth army seized the strategic town of Eboli, 20 miles inland.

Under the impact of steady pressure from the Allies, who pounded the Nazi lines ceaselessly from land, sea and air, Field Marshal Albert Kesselring swung the entire left wing of his defense line backward to new positions beyond the Eboli area.

Kesselring drew upon past experience to extricate himself from a perilous situation and reform his lines elsewhere. He withdrew from the whole south end of the battleground to escape the growing threat of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Eighth army which is rapidly advancing northward.

American and British troops edged steadily forward east of Monte Corvino. The Allies found the roads demolished in the Eboli area to protect the German withdrawal. In addition, the enemy used small numbers of mechanized troops for their rearguard action to slow Allied progress.

There was every indication that another showdown battle will occur as soon as Kesselring has reformed his line in conjunction with other German forces on the east coast.

German prisoners meanwhile said that Allied air force attacks had been a dominant factor in the battle of Italy. One officer said his company lost 50 per cent of its men.

With seizure of Eboli, Allied forces came into control of all three roads leading from the Sorrento peninsula into Naples, immediate objective of the present drive.

American and British troops commanded all the dominating heights along the Sorrento peninsula for a distance of 15 miles west of Salerno as well as strategic islands facing the Bay of Naples.

Dispatches to headquarters said the Allied forces already were within artillery range of Naples but as yet there was no word that the Fifth army commanded by Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark had opened fire on the Naples area.

The Allies pressed their advantage following the forced with-

TRICK: Reds Outflank Center Of Nazi Line, Cut Crimea Exit

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Blasting into the Smolensk defense zone to outflank that German central front anchor, Red army forces stormed on today from captured Velizh, 65 miles to the northwest, while further south they slashed across the Kiev-Chernigov highway on the middle Dnieper river and cut the main Crimean escape railway between Zaparozhe and Dniepropetrovsk.

The Moscow communique disclosed an amazing list of triumphs by the hard-slugging Russian troops, including the start of a great wheeling movement pointed toward Cherkasy, key rail center on the Dnieper southeast of Kiev, in an attempt to entrap hundreds of thousands of German troops reported massed in the river bend.

More than 1,130 towns and villages fell before the Soviet advances, the Russian war bulletin said. The enemy left more than 10,000 dead on the field of battle, the Russians said.

Red army airmen smashed an apparent German attempt to evacuate the Caucasus, when they sank an enemy minesweeper and three troop barges south of the Aaman peninsula, above the recaptured port of Novorossisk.

While the whole German front appeared to be crumbling under the battering by the Red army, the Nazi situation in the Smolensk theater verged on the precarious. Soviet front line reports

COSTLY: Japs Pay High Price While Losing Salamaua And Lae

BULLETIN

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Berlin radio reported today in a broadcast recorded by OWI that the Japanese premier, Hideki Tojo, will make an important speech tomorrow to announce "drastic measures and changes within the home front to meet the present serious war situation."

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Japanese planes have carried out their third attack in six days on Guadalcanal, American base in the Solomons, the navy announced today.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC—Japan paid a high price in men and equipment while losing Lae and Salamaua on New Guinea.

Now that these air bases are firmly in General MacArthur's hands, enemy garrisons in the area are beginning to undergo attacks by fighter-escorted bombers and to see more strafing Allied fighters than they have experienced before.

Just how many of a Japanese army once estimated at 20,000 men were slain as Salamaua fell Sept. 12 and Lae Sept. 16 remains to be disclosed in official reports. But a spokesman for General MacArthur said today the enemy, caught in a jungle encirclement movement, lost heavily.

He said evidence has been found that the Japanese lost an entire regiment, ordinarily averaging 2,200 men, in killed and hospitalized during the outpost battles at Wau, Mubo and Komiatum leading up to the larger

HELL AND HIGH WATER

CHAPTER XXVII

Bob Lee turned over the handkerchief that he had taken from the bush and carefully considered its implications. His first impulse was to follow the horses' tracks into the hills but he knew he must first report to the men at Devil's Head what he had found. Putting his horse at a canter, he rode along the shoulder of the hill and caught sight of a man riding down the chimney of a small gulch. It was Timmy Boggs. Lee shouted and a minute later pulled up beside him.

Timmy said, "How, Bob?"

Bob showed him the handkerchief. "Someone found her and took her into the hills. One of the Hickory gang. She left this to put us on the track."

"How you know?"

In four sentences Bob told what he had discovered. "I want you to show this to Broderick and tell him what I have told you. I'm going to start back now Let me have yore gun You can get one from one of the boys who has a rifle, too"

Without a word Timmy exchanged revolvers with him. The Indian rode toward the rendezvous. Bob turned to the place where he had found the handkerchief. At the brow of the hill he tied his bandanna to a shrub in order that Broderick's men might not miss the spot.

Bob picked up the tracks of the two horses and followed them into the hills But the ground was hard, rocky, and dry. Its sunbaked surface had not retained the hoofprints All he could do was to keep riding in the direction first taken by the outlaw. This was a forlorn hope. The country was so chopped up by ravines, gulches, hills and narrow valleys that he had to wind and twist and double back frequently. He had a hundred chances to miss the camp.

For hours he kept going. The sun climbed high in the heavens. His watch showed the time past noon. He found a grassy pocket by a creek and unsaddled to rest his horse. After picketing it he lay down in the shadow of some shrubs and tried to relax.

Below him a stream twisted through a narrow canyon, at places hidden from view by thickets of wild cherries. Something was moving down there. He could see the limbs being brushed aside. He waited, and out of the tangle rode a man on horseback. From that distance he could not be sure of who it was. He found a way down from the prong and put his mount at the descent. He had to wind down a rocky ravine By the time that he reached the brook the traveler had vanished.

He followed the stream up a narrowing canyon to a rift in the wall which opened a passage along the ledge toward the top. A hoof print in the sand showed that a horse had recently traveled up this fault

Bob's mind jumped back to another day when he and Hightower had ridden just such a rock fault. Half way up he had decided they might not be able to reach the top and had turned in his saddle to tell Cleburn so, but the sight of the Choctaw's composed immobile face had checked him. He had said nothing and had ridden forward.

Tomorrow was the day set for his friend's execution. Bob knew that powerful influences were at work to save Hightower, the most potent of which was the growing conviction that in killing a Hickory he had done a service to the community. But neither the judge who had presided at the trial nor the principal chief had as yet made a move publicly. They might be waiting to save him at the last moment, or they might have decided to let the verdict of the court stand.

He had intended to ride today to Four Corners and make one last plea to Cal Judson for a reversal of his false testimony, but a more urgent duty had prevented him Cle must take his chance. He had to find the daughter of his boss if he could.

When he reached the top of the canyon wall Bob saw before him a country so broken by primeval upheavals that one could lose himself in any one of a dozen rock folds The rider he had seen a half an hour earlier had disappeared in one of them The J A B cowboy could not make even a logical guess as to which way the traveler had gone Through the brush he dropped down into one of the pockets, came to an impasse, rode back and tried another. There was little hope in his heart that he might be right. Two hours later he was still riding anxiously from one ridge to another when the sound of a rifle booming down a draw startled him

The shot had come from close at hand, and it had been fired from a rifle. Lee decided to find out who was responsible for it. He dismounted and tied his horse to a young cottonwood, then pushed up through a thick growth of scrub brush to the top of the nearest rise Before he reached it a rifle sounded again

Peering through the brush, he saw not more than fifty yards from him the three Hickory brothers. They had spread out and were moving very cautiously toward a defile that cut through a ridge.

Two saddled horses were on the hill shoulder just outside of the cut The riderless horse nearest him was the buckskin Willie May had ridden from the ranch yesterday Bob ran lightly up the slope back of them to the rock ridge and began to climb it That he was lost if one of the outlaws turned he knew, but he hoped they were so intent on stalking their prey that they would not look behind them. If they did, a slug of lead would tear into his back The rock crown of the hogback was about 20 feet high and almost perpendicular There were hand and foot holds on the jagged surface, and out of the crevices grew shrubs near the summit. By means of the tough vegetation he pulled himself over the top.

A narrow runway led down to the pass. He raced along it, and as he came into the cut heard a rifle boom between the narrow walls He caught sight of Willie May, the smoking weapon in her hands She was kneeling in front of Sugg, who lay on the ground.

Bob shouted her name and ran forward She turned, and gave a cry of joy.

"Take this," she urged, and thrust the rifle at him "I didn't wait till I saw him, but fired to warn them I was ready"

"Can he walk?" Bob asked, nodding at the wounded man

"No He collapsed when we reached here"

"I'll carry him." Bob handed her the rifle. 'Get back to the runway and stay under cover"

He hoisted Sugg across his shoulder and followed the girl. She did not run, but walked ahead of him, with frequent frightened glances at the gateway in their rear

"If they come, let me know and I'll take the Winchester," he told her. "And when I do, lie down close to the wall."

They were almost at the runway when she cried, "There they are."

"Keep going," he ordered. "Duck in there quick"

He reached shelter a split second after she did. Gently he laid down the body of the unconscious man.

"Jake Hickory shot him," she said.

"Yes. We can't do anything for him now Get up to the other end of this passage and watch that they don't try to come down the way I did. Be sure not to show yourself."

She did as told. Bob peered round the corner A bullet whistled past his head.

"Come out with yore hands up, Sugg—you and the girl too. We won't hurt you. I wouldn't of shot you up, but I thought it was Greer." The voice was Jake Hickory's.

"Not Sugg talking," Bob shouted. "I'm a J A B rider. Others are close. Now they've heard this shooting they'll come bursting in to clean you up."

"No use pulling that kind of talk, Sugg," Jake yelled. "We know that you're bad hurt. Come out peaceable, or we'll shoot you and the girl both into rag dolls."

"I'll come if yore brothers will get back outa the cut so I can talk with you alone," Bob answered "I'm scared to meet you all till we've got it fixed up."

His voice was weak and pleading The tone of it heartened Jake.

"Sure, Sugg," he consented, "We ain't asking a thing that ain't right. You and I will get together on this, and it will be all right with the boys."

"No, Bob," the girl interposed. "Don't trust them. They mean to kill us all. Please don't go out"

Bob's face was grim, his eyes steely. "Don't worry. I wouldn't trust him a nickel's worth"

"What are you going to do?"

"I'm going to give him a surprise."

"The boys are leaving the pass" Jake spoke with harsh authority. "No monkey business, Sugg. Shove yore rifle out before you come"

Bob peered out to make sure the two younger Hickorys were going. They were riding through the gateway.

"All right. They've gone." Jake's heavy bass sounded strained and anxious "Throw out yore rifle and yore six-gun. Don't forget I've got you covered"

REVEALS 'ART' OF PICKPOCKET

Director of Crime Survey Tells How 'Dips' Pick Victims.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO—A professional pickpocket can tell at a glance whether a person is carrying cash or not, according to Hans von Hentig, director of the Colorado Crime Survey.

In his study of the art of pickpocketing, published in the Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology, von Hentig disclosed the following psychological quirks that are well-known to the purse lifters.

"People with money walk differently from those without. There is a distinct difference in the way they move their arms and inspect shop windows and restaurants. There's a general impression of self-assurance, ponderosity, unconcern and good humor—sometimes anxiety, too—presented by people with money in their pockets."

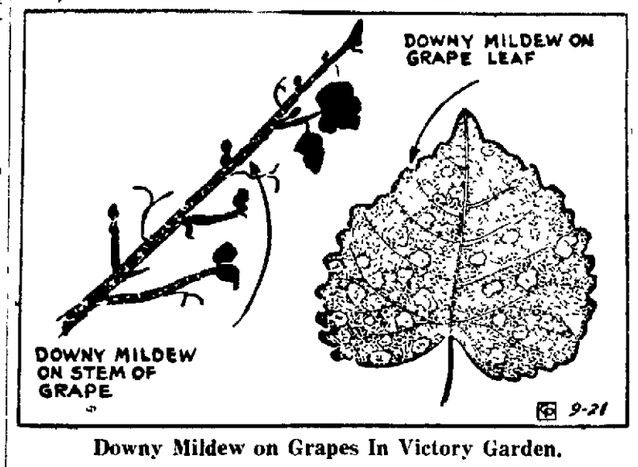
Although pickpockets can recognize a promising victim, it isn't easy to know a pickpocket, even at arm's length, von Hentig warned.

"The successful one is well good manners. He uses the exdressed, but not elegantly. He has ternal fiction of wealth, good conscience and naivette to lull the victim into a feeling of security.

"The pickpocket likes to work in crowds, on buses because of their irregular movements and among concert audiences. Usually two work together, one plucking the wallet and passing it quickly to the other, but sometimes a whole group unites to cause confusion in a crowd"

Master pickpockets—those with long muscular fingers and small hands kept soft with soda washes and cold cream—seldom spend a day in jail, von Hentig said In addition, they teach their skill to newcomers who follow "a real tradition" and keep the trade going

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Downy Mildew on Grapes In Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY

(Released by Central Press Ass'n.)

If you have been puzzled by a mildew upon the stems and leaves of the grapes in your Victory garden, you may find that the vines are infected with "downy mildew," one of the worst fungus enemies of the grape.

Downy mildew affects the leaves and tender vines as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, and it also affects the grape berries It causes loss through the total or partial destruction of the foliage, and through the stunting of the new shoots. In many areas this has been a season which has resulted in much downy mildew because the disease develops rapidly during wet, hot seasons

If your grapes are affected with downy mildew, be prepared to spray them next spring with Bordeaux mixture. Several applications will control downy mildew, as well as other foliage diseases, provided spraying is begun before the blossoms open.

Today is the last day to use your No. 7 Gasoline Coupons

YOURS for the asking
Know what Service Ribbons stand for! Ask your Shell Dealer for your copy of the 2nd "Service Ribbon Guide"—contains full-color illustrations, explanation and history of Service Ribbons worn by men of the Coast Guard, Marine Corps, and Navy.

Be Smart! sign up now for Shellubrication
Let your Shell Dealer reserve an appointment for the complete Shellubrication of your car. You're assured of the best possible job at a date agreed upon between you.

...time to change your motor oil, too!

THERE'S NO DOUBT ABOUT IT—you drive many less miles with gasoline rationing. But that doesn't mean you can be less careful about changing your oil!

Even the finest motor oil is exposed to impurities, dust, abrasives and other contaminants carried through the air. And though your oil lies idle, partially burned fuel particles are constantly promoting oil deterioration.

In addition, with today's short trips at lower driving speeds, engines do not get hot enough to "cook off" water formed by combustion and condensation. This water accumulates in your crankcase, further contaminates your oil.

Keep on the safe side. Change oil when you change gasoline coupons. Then you know you're not taking chances. See your Shell Dealer!

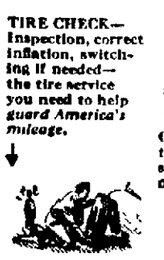
SHELL
GROUND CREW SERVICE
Put your car in the hands of any Shell Dealer displaying Ground Crew Wings. "Ground Crew" Service is an essential war service designed to help your car outlast the duration. Patterned after the rigid maintenance routine of the U. S. Army Air Forces, it treats your car like a plane!

↑ COMPLETE LUBRICATION of all moving parts with fresh Shell Lubricants Inspection of transmission and differential lubricant levels.

CLEANING of all windows and interior of car. Inspection of fan belt, lights, and other motor accessories. ↓

↑ BATTERY CHECK—Especially important now, as reduced driving may have allowed strength to fall below normal.

TIRE CHECK—Inspection, correct inflation, switching if needed—the tire service you need to help guard America's mileage. ↓



↑ RADIATOR CHECK—Inspection of all cooling-system hose connections.

SPARKPLUG CHECK—Cleaning and adjusting if necessary. Dirty plugs can waste up to 10% of your gasoline. ↓

No new tires for at least 9 months except for the most essential drivers. Don't let your tires wear beyond recapping point.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Sept. 22.

Moderately active and favorable conditions are shown in this day's mutual and lunar aspects, which indicate peculiar entanglements or affiliations, which may be turned to good account by shrewd and subtle manipulation, perhaps secret agreements of well thought out strategies. New things may be engineered under such tactics, perhaps innovations, novelties or bold initiative, but in all be alert to misrepresentation and fraud. Be wary with financial or legal writings.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of peculiar experiences in which strange contacts or agreements may cause future adventures both unwise and unprofitable. It may take much perspicacity, shrewdness and acumen to sidestep complications. Innovations, unique ventures or high-pressure enterprise may call for much discretion and sound sense, with financial documents subject to trickery or fraud. Be wary with strangers.

A child born on this day should be energetic, resourceful and talented in novel ways which may render it open to suspicion.

WOMEN VOTERS PLAN POST-WAR MEETINGS

Mrs. D. O. Meese In Charge of Session for Squad Leaders to Be Held In First Presbyterian Church Thursday at 2 P. M.

THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS is adopting a plan to help people see beyond their ration books to a postwar world that must recognize the worldwide interrelation of each country's peace and prosperity.

The Mansfield chapter, in charge of Mrs. D. O. Meese, has contacted clubs, from which they have secured representatives, and have held meetings with them every other week.

A meeting of the squad leaders from church organizations will be held Thursday at 2 p. m., at the First Presbyterian church. The meeting is open to anyone who is interested.

The league is trying to get other nations to help make possible the kind of world we and they need, in order to live our own lives as we want to, here.

"Whether we choose to cooperate or not," according to the League of Women Voters, "our choice will have an important bearing on our future security from wars, the number of men we shall have to keep under arms, the taxes we shall have to pay, the opportunities for profitable trade with other nations, our jobs, our wages, and any number of other matters vital to us."

The league believes that "if other nations are doubtful what part we are going to play in the world after the war, they will be forced to make their plans without knowing what to expect of us. Then we will have to cut our pattern according to the kind of world others have made."

Members of the league are urging Mansfield women to join a squad and attend the meetings being conducted now by the league.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

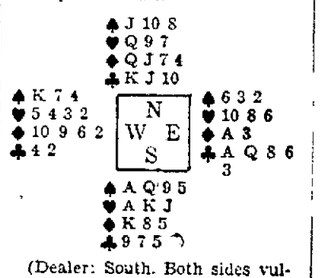
"The Authority on Authorities"

BREAK LESSER RULES

ONE SUPPOSED rule of defensive play against a No Trump contract is to return your partner's suit. Another rule of general defense is to lead up to weakness in the dummy. Neither of these is as important a rule as to make the play which seems best calculated to defeat the contract. Doing that may necessitate your departing from the two rules stated, which are lesser ones. There are times even when the main rule of defense—to bat the contract—calls upon you to lead up to the dummy's best suit.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

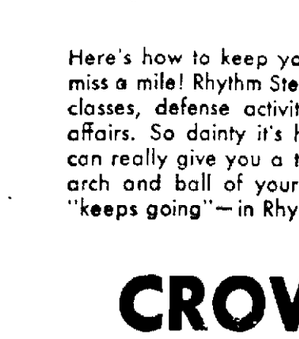
South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

West led the diamond 2, which East took with the A. Now came the real point of this deal. Just a bit of study will show that, if East returns the suit, South can score three tricks in diamonds, three in spades and three in hearts. Even if West, when in with the spade K, should return a club, the defenders will score only four tricks, with two in clubs, one in diamonds and one in spades.

Exactly the same result will be obtained if East switches on the second trick to a heart or spade, in order to "lead up to weakness in the dummy."

Just one return will beat the contract, and it should be clear to a fine player, as it was in this case to one of the navy's best, Captain John O. Huse, U. S. N. He sent back the club 6, right into the dummy's tenace. He saw that this would leave him a major tenace over the dummy's remaining clubs, so that, if Mrs Huse could win a trick in the West and had another club to return, the contract would be set a trick.

As soon as Mrs. Huse got the lead with the spade K, she did exactly that, and it was just too bad for South.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

If North passed originally, because he had his cards badly sorted and misread his strength, what should he do after South then opens this deal with 1-Heart?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

My father stood for a second longer while Noel and Ronald seated themselves with Mary at the table, and then he handed me the paper containing the "personals" I had drafted.

"Just a second before you begin dictating, Margaret," he said. "Noel, have you anything special on for the next hour?"

"Not a thing, sir," Noel replied "except to answer the door, and preserve the fiction that Mary's sprained ankle is in a cast."

"Margaret can stay here and do that while you are gone," my father said. "So, on second thought, I'm going to excuse you from the copying of the personals and ask you to do an errand for me. Can you go almost immediately?"

"As soon as I get my hat," Noel said, and my father smiled.

"Then wait until I telephone," he said, and going to the telephone he gave a number which I recognized with interest and curiosity as that of the Underwood house where Harry Underwood and Ronald were domiciled.

"Harry?" he said a few seconds later. "Any reason why you can't come over here right away? Good! I'm sending Noel over to stay while you're gone, so that we'll keep our promise to Lillian. As soon as he gets the car which ought to be within a few minutes, be ready to come back. I'll have him take a taxi and you take the same taxi back to the Larsfield to save time. Come up to Margaret's suite. Good-bye."

He turned back to Noel who already had his hat in his hand and was standing at the door.

Noel Gets Orders

"You heard me?" he asked. "Good! Get the first taxi you can, and keep it at the Underwood's until Harry comes out and takes it. I'll arrange it so you can come back here as soon as possible can."

"You needn't hurry unless on my account, sir," Noel said. "If Mary can't go without me I can stay over here as long as you like."

"Katharine and I will take care of Mary," I struck in and my father smiled.

"Then on a person which probably dates me," he said, "everything is jake, and I will go back to my daughter's suite. Telephone me, Margaret, as soon as the copies of the personals are ready."

"I'll do that," I promised, and then, as soon as the door closed behind him, I began dictating while Ronald and Mary wrote.

When I had finished reading, and they had written the last words, I took up the pencil which had been left out for Noel.

"Instead of dictating any more, I'm going to copy this draft," I said. "I'll check on the two you have written, just as a matter of form, and then you each make two more, as I shall do. The one who finishes first may have the doubtful reward of making out the ninth copy, and the original draft can be kept here."

"What a brain! What a brain!" Mary murmured, burlesquing awe. But she did not see the fist I shook at her, for she already was writing swiftly, and she easily out-distanced Ronald and me. Indeed, she was almost through with the ninth copy by the time we had finished ours.

I checked carefully, and then went to the telephone and called my father.

"You're not finished already?" he queried, in an astonishment that gave me a heady gratification.

"But we are!" I told him triumphantly.

"I'll send Richard right over for the copies. Now is there anything he can bring to help you get ready for your trip?"

"Not a thing," I answered. "I'm all ready except for a little freshening up which I can do here. Oh, wait! If you're starting from here, ask Dicky to bring my hat, coat and purse with him. Otherwise I can pick them up when I go back."

Nothing More To Do.

"You'll have time to get them here. Now, there isn't a thing more for you and Mary to do except to see that Ronald has that letter ready to mail within the next 15 mintues. I'll send him over to the postoffice with it."

Long association with my father has made me sensitive to the various nuances of his tones, and from somewhere there came the conviction that Ronald's trip to the postoffice was simply an excuse to get him out of the way for a little while. But my answer revealed nothing of my thought.

"I'll attend to it," I said, merely.

"Good!" he approved. "As soon as he's finished, ask him to bring the letter over to me."

"Very well," I replied and as I turned from the telephone, Ronald looked up from the desk to which he had gone back as soon as the copies of the personal were finished.

"Is he in a hurry for this letter?" he asked.

WHEN WILL THIS WAR BE OVER?

A FATTISH MAN we overheard in a Pullman diner said it would be over some time during the week of November 11.

He'd talked to "a man who knew a man who was high up in the army" who'd said the Allies were planning to terminate the war on the 25th Anniversary of the Armistice.

The fattish man doesn't know.

A woman, who is president of a literary club in a medium-sized town in Colorado, says the war will be over in April, 1944.

This is (we quote her) "just a year after the fall of Tunisia, which is about the time it ought to take us to beat Hitler and clean up on the Japs."

The lady doesn't know.

The fact is that nobody can look into a crystal ball and tell when this war is going to end. Nobody, not even the General Staff, can look at the war maps, survey the disposition of troops, weigh our might against the enemy's might, and tell when this war will end.

There's only one thing we can be sure of—just this one thing:

This war will end sooner if everybody on our side—and that includes you—pitches in and does everything he can to help end it. "Everything" means, among other jobs, buying all the War Bonds you can afford. All.

Your government is asking every citizen to purchase—during September—$100 extra in War Bonds. At least $100 over and above what he has been buying.

Does this sound like a lot to you? Well, the only answer is our men need a lot. A General Sherman tank still costs $90,000; a Flying Fortress still costs $450,000.

You can buy your extra $100 worth, can't you? If you think you can't, read over every story in today's paper that tells about some soldiers, some sailors, some marines, some merchant seamen dying somewhere in this war-ripped world.

And remember—they're dying for you.

Brought to a fighting pitch by their unexpected defeat at the hands of Marion Harding last week, Mansfield's Tygers have a chance to make good use of that spirit by seeking revenge at Elyria Friday night, revenge for a 27-13 defeat by the Pioneers last year.

Elyria is all enthused over Coach Ike Trubey's first Pioneer ball club after a 14-6 opening victory over Oberlin last Friday.

Coach Paul Snyder saw the Elyria opener, and reports: "They're big, but they can be beaten.

"Elyria has an inexperienced, but big line, a backfield which has three veterans from last year, and they still have Norm Henry, the tall colored end, whose pass receiving beat Mansfield in '42," Snyder said.

Passes from Dick Browne, quarterback, to Henry set up both of Elyria's touchdowns, scored by right halfback Jim Bornino on short smashes at the line.

Loren Meshke, who booted both of the extra points for Elyria, is a 215 pound tackle.

Elyria scored in each of the first two periods, was on the offensive throughout the third period, but fumbles and passes thrown and intercepted in their own territory put them on the defense through the final stanza.

The Pioneers showed a good running attack to mix up the overhead game, marching 56 yards for the first touchdown and 57 for the second.

As for the individual stars of the Elyria victory, the Elyria Chronicle-Telegram reported:

Halfbacks Yarsa and Bornino did some good running for Elyria. Best defensive player was Hopkins, fullback, who backed up the Crimson forward wall in exceptionally fine style. He was in on almost every play. On defense, the Elyria linemen all turned in creditable performances, and in the first half the boys were hitting plenty hard on offense.

That's the dope from Elyria. Now if the Tygers can iron out all the things that went wrong with them at Marion, maybe we can do something about it.

Crown Champs In Softball Tourney

DETROIT —(AP)— Pitchers who can hit were hailed today as the heroes of the Amateur Softball association "World Series" that crowned the Hammer Field Raiders of Fresno, Calif., and the New Orleans Jax Maids as champions from an original starting field of 50,000 teams.

Pvt. Kermit Lynch pitched a one-hitter and tripled home the only run as the California service team defeated Detroit Briggs 1-0 in the showdown game last night of the four-day tournament. Nifty Nina Korgan, the Walter Johnson of girl softball, hurled a one-hitter and drove in two runs with a pair of singles as New Orleans trimmed the Phoenix, Ariz., Ramblers, 7-0.

WALKER WINS

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Buddy Walker, veteran heavyweight from Columbus, O., won a 10 round feature bout from Lee Oma of New York here last night. Unofficial score sheets gave the New Yorker only two rounds to Walker's six. Two were rated as even.

Majors Near End Of Sked

Attention Centers on Detroit-Yankee Series.

By JUDSON BAILEY

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE major leagues will swing into their last intersectional round robin of the season tomorrow and instead of everybody ogling the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers as appeared likely when the schedule was drawn, attention will be centered on the New York Yankees' games with the Detroit Tigers.

In the last couple of years a September series between the Cards and Dodgers always has meant thunder and lightning and a pennant waving in the balance.

But this is all changed now. The three games with the Dodgers this week only mean to the Cardinals a chance to rub salt on old wounds. They could do this effectively by bumping Brooklyn out of second place, if they haven't let down as the result of clinching the National league pennant Saturday, and if the Cincinnati Reds cut loose against the New York Giants.

However, the controversy over second place in the senior circuit will be in eclipse until the New York Yankees complete the business of winning the American league flag.

They had a chance to do it at Washington last week-end, but were set down surprisingly in three consecutive games as the Senators reinforced their hold on the runner-up spot with a nine-game winning streak.

As a result the Yankees still need a combination of five victories of their own or defeats for Washington to eliminate the Senators.

While the Yankees are taking on Detroit for four games in New York, the Senators will be host to the St. Louis Browns for three night tussles.

The Cleveland Indians, who also still have a mathematical chance, come into Yankee Stadium Sunday after four games at Boston and then move on to Washington in the middle of next week.

The race should be over by then, but if it is not the Indians and Senators may dispose of each other.

Tighten Grip On Stick Lead

Musial and Appling Improve Batting Marks.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Both Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals and Luke Appling of the Chicago White Sox tightened their grasps on the battling leaderships of their leagues during the past week.

Musial hiked his aggregate three points and now leads second-place Billy Herman of the Brooklyn Dodgers by 22 points, compared to the 19 points of seven days ago. Musial now is hitting at a .356 pace while Herman has the identical figures—.334—of a week ago.

Appling also climed three points, from .321 to .324, and Dick Wakefield, young Detroit outfielder, skidded from .315 to .313, giving the veteran shortstop an 11-point margin.

Junior Stephens of the St. Louis Browns, erstwhile American league leader who dropped from the Big Ten in his circuit last week, returned this time with an average of .285, good enough to give him a tie for ninth with Pete Fox of Boston. Stephens ousted Frankie Higgins of Detroit.

In the National circuit, Frankie Gustine of the Pittsburgh Pirates edged into the select group, displacing Stan Hack of the Chicago Cubs. Gustine has a .297 ticket.

Arntz Takes Rifle Title

N. C. O. Championship Remains In Mansfield.

North Central Ohio rifle championship stayed in Mansfield Sunday in the annual shoot at the Gasco range, but shifted from Clarence Rist to Leo A. Arntz.

Arntz won the Kocheiser trophy and the N. C. O. title for one year with a mark of 796 out of 800. Cleo Pfleiderer of Galion was second with 793 and Bill Schaad of Ashland third with 792.

Scope sight DeWar was won by Pfleiderer with 399 out of 400 and 22 X's. L. Bender was second with 399 and 20 X's and Arntz third with 398 and 18 X's. The Martin Hardware gold trophy was the prize.

Arntz took the Iron sight DeWar and the Iron Sight championship with 398 out of 400 and 18 X's. C. E. Tuller was second with 397 and 18 X's and Schaad third with 395.

This is the second time Arntz has won the N. C. O. title, and also his second DeWar and third Iron sight championships. Pfleiderer took the scope sight for the second time and tied for the championship last year.

The 2-man team match was taken by Rist and Charley Doggett with the very high score of 387 in 400 with 20 shots each at the difficult 100 yard international target.

Cardinals Repeat As National League Champions

TO RESUME PLAY

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—The Cleveland Rams, who suspended professional football this year, plan to resume operations again in 1944, Charles F. (Chili) Walsh, vice president and coach, announced today. Walsh said he had begun reorganization and rebuilding of the Rams' personnel.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Say what you like about the quality of football this season, at least its producing a lot more laughs than in years when the game was good enough to be taken seriously . . . In place of solemn discussions of single wing, double wing, "Notre Dame" or "T" formations, coaches now are solid for the V-12 formation . . . and Pfc. Jim Reed, who can't forget football even though he's in the army, suggests: "First down is what this season's 17-year-old quarterbacks will be shaving off their chins . . . Tub Thumper Harold Keith reports that when Oklahoma's new junior varsity team lost 6-0 to Norman high school, one sooner end just stood by and watched the high schoolers run around him for 40 yards on a fake punt . . . Jayvee Coach Herb Heilman told the youngster: "Son, that play is as old as the hills" . . . "Yes coach," came the reply, "but I'm not as old as the hills."

Charley Keller, Yankees—They call him King Kong; if he can't scare the opposing pitchers into submission, he clubs 'em . . . Has hit 28 home runs and has drawn over 100 walks this season—All on a .271 batting average . . . Made only four hits in the '42 World Series but two were homers, accounting for five runs . . . Appearing in fourth World Series in five years of major league ball.

Danny Litwhiler, Cardinals — Danny played in 151 games for the Phillies last year without an error, and apparently it wasn't an error when he hurt his leg in a race on opening day last spring . . . That led to his being traded to the Cards and to the brand new experience of collecting a World Series check . . . Hitting an undistinguished .266.

Edward J. Baker, who owns the famous trotter, Greyhound, and recently bought King's counsel for $20,000, now is bidding for the 1943 Hambletonian winner, Volo Song . . . Fred Mandel, jr., owner and publicity man of the Detroit Lions, devotes two pages of his latest handout to notes about Frankie Sinkwich. After negotiating Frank's contract, Mandel admits that Pop Ignatius Sinkwich would make a great blocking back.

* * *

Paul Menton, Baltimore Evening Sun: "From all accounts 'math' will throw more college teams for a loss this fall than anything else. The navy's V12's are finding it far more difficult than learning football signals. If they fail the former they are not around to learn the latter."

A-League Has Twelve Teams

Unsponsored Quintet Takes Scoring Honors.

Mansfield's City "A" bowling league has finally reached the 12-team goal it set for itself two years ago. Sunday night the league opened with 12 full teams, but still needing three sponsors.

One of the unsponsored teams took scoring honors with a 2815 total and 965 game, aided by Ira Keefer's 619 series and Clarence Dawson's 608. Keefer led the league in total score and high game of 252.

Carl Phillipon turned in a 610, including a 241 game, a neat score for the league president. And J. Lain had 602.

Tyger Defeat Rated as Upset

Toledo Waite Sub Races 99 and 80 Yards For Touchdowns

By SAM FOGG, INS Sports Writer.

THE RAMBLER ELEVEN of Tiltonsville high school, the Marion Harding Presidents and a substitute halfback at Toledo Waite high school emerged from the press clippings today as providers of the opening thrills in the initial action of the 1943 Ohio high school football season.

Tiltonsville, tutored by Jimmy Vince, became possessor of the longest victory streak in the state as they racked up their 25th straight against Dillonvale, 20-0, over the week-end. Unbeaten for two consecutive seasons, the Ramblers are aiming for the Ohio Valley Record of 27 straight established by Weirton, W. Va. in their next two encounters, they face Union and Mingo.

Shy of experienced material in the opener, the Vince squad was paced by a 133-pound back, Jerry Lucarelli, who passed and plunged for three scores. The defeat of the Xenia O. S. S. O. class B eleven for the first time since 1939 made the Rambler string the longest in the state. Xenia fell to Franklin, 18-0, after winning 26 in a row.

Marion emerged as one of the better teams in the state by wrecking Mansfield's title hopes, 6-0, with a "La Conga" shift. The triumph was the first for the Presidents over the Tygers since 1927.

The Marion eleven, coached by Vic Dorris, drove 67 yards for a final period touchdown with their backs shifting to the La Conga rhythm. The contest ended with the Tygers on the Marion one-yard stripe with first and goal to go.

Individual honors for the week are awarded to Johnny Armstrong, Toledo Waite sub, who raced for 80 and 99 yard touchdown jaunts as Waite trimmed Woodward, 32-0. His first sprint started on his own 20 and later in the game, he intercepted a Woodward pass on his own one, picked up a barrage of blockers and sprinted for the score.

The initial week-end was marked by the successes of the long-standing underdogs. Uhrichsville defeated Dover, 18-6, for the first time in 12 years, Bowling Green's Bobcats trimmed Gibsonburg for their first victory in two years, and Cleveland St. Ignatius upset Cathedral Latin, 12-6, to end an 18-year domination by the Lions.

Two unbeaten elevens of the 1942 campaign dropped their initial starts. Dayton Oakwood fell before Wilbur Wright, 28-19, and Toledo Libbey lost to Toledo Central, 12-0. Cleveland Lincoln achieved the 21st victory in succession by routing Collinwood, 26-0. Defiance gained No. 14 in a row by trouncing Paulding, 46-9, and Youngstown Woodrow Wilson, the fifth unbeaten 1942 outfit, whipped Struthers, 27-0.

Among the scoring leaders in the state are Ollie Cline of Fredericktown with 31 points, Dick Jones of Cleveland Shaker with 24 markers, Hank Smith of Canton McKinley with 21, and his teammate, Joe Pujazon with 20. Other top performances were turned in by Begley of Wilbur Wright who scored three touchdowns and was matched by James of Dayton Oakwood who scored all of his team's touchdowns. A pair of twins at Alliance, Bill and Frank Rodgers, accounted for three aviator touchdowns between them in defeating Wooster, 18-6.

In a slam-bang battle at Cambridge where New Philadelphia's Quakers edged their opening opponent, 20-18, Bob Ed Harris, veteran New Philly back, took the opening kickoff and raced back 80 yards to score. Keene Pepper, Cambridge ace, counted all of his team's points in a brilliant performance.

Other than the Mansfield casualty, the Powerhouse teams of the state proved adequate. Massillon, Martins Ferry, Canton McKinley and Lehman won impressively. Gene "Ghost" Joseph and Karl Kindberg paced the Martins Ferry 27-0 victory over Yorkville with the former flitting for a 75-yard touchdown.

Contenders emerging from the first week play were Lorain with a 54-0 victory over Akron South, Portsmouth with a 66-0 triumph, Warren with a 36-0 victory against Girard, Newark and Columbus North.

Cross Country Race Settled

Plans Are Completed For Mansfield Meet Oct. 30.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The annual Ohio high school cross country track meet will be held Oct. 30 at the Mansfield High school under auspices of the Ohio High School Athletic association, Richard Larkin, member of the executive board of Ohio Track Coaches association, announced today.

Larkin said the executive board met Sunday to lay final plans for the annual high school track classic and appointed Harry Mehock, director of athletics at Mansfield High school, to supervise the meet.

Larkin predicted that approximately 100 youths would take part in the meet, about the same number which competed last year, after district eliminations to determine the state cross-country champion.

The track coaches association planned two clinics to be held late next March, one at Cleveland in conjunction with the Knights of Columbus track meet there, and the other at Columbus or southern Ohio.

The track coaches association also went on record favoring state and district track meets as far as they are compatible with the war effort, Larkin said.

WE'RE READY TO ATTACK HARD, SAYS MARSHALL

Hints Heavy Blows In Store For Japs; M'Nutt Warns of Manpower Troubles.

(By United Press)

OMAHA, Neb.—Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, said today that America's armed forces—having used only a small portion of their combat troops—were now ready to carry the war to the Axis "with a power and force that we hope will bring this conflict to an early conclusion."

He warned, however, against over-optimistic interpretations of war developments and said that the offensive against the Axis was just beginning.

Marshall told the annual American Legion convention that he believed there was "some misunderstanding as to the decree of success we have attained" and that recent moves had been regarded as "final steps in the conflict." Instead, he said, most of the past year and a half had been establishing bases for future operations and that those preparations were nearly completed.

"Save for assults in the air, only a small portion of our combat strength has been engaged,' he said. "Now at last we are ready to carry the war to the enemy, all overseas, thank God, with a power and force that we hope will bring this conflict to an early conclusion."

Marshall hinted at heavy blows in store for Japan by reporting that the armed service had been making plans "for the further development of the war in the Pacific with the additional means as they become available from the struggle in the European theater."

War Manpower Director Paul V. McNutt told the Legion that the nation is failing to meet its war production schedules, and warned that "every man of draft age must see the war through."

In an addres prepared for delivery at the convention, McNutt said there are more than 63,500,000 men and women "actively engaged" in industry or serving in the armed forces, but he warned that "we are reaching the end of our available manpower supply.' He did not, however, mention the draft of fathers specifically.

"The beachheads at Salerno are a grim warning of what is yet to come," he said. "We are only just now beginning to face the real enemy."

Roanne Waring, retiring National commander of the Legion, said Legionnaires must "support, encourage and fight for" a dictated peace of "absolute victory, not a negotiated peace with any enemy nation."

Grants Use Of Stadium Field For OCD Show

Use of Stadium field at Senior high school for a civilian defense demonstration Sunday night, Oct. 3, was granted last night by the board of education which asked only that the football field be left in good condition.

The show, open to the public, will feature a simulated bombing during which miniature buildings will be set afire by "bombs." Persons in the buildings, including a school and homes, will be rescued and given first aid by the civilian defense workers.

Volunteers for the bombing "victim" jobs are needed, Ray Ward, chief air raid warden in the downtown area, said today. They were asked to see C. E. Boughton, a sector chief, Wednesday or Friday night at the county fairground where rehearsals for the show will be held.

OCD Commander Jesse Schwab today asked Mansfielders to report to the civilian defense headquarters on how well they hear the Mansfield reformatory steam siren in a test Wednesday noon. The OCD telephone number is 1658-6. The old siren, which used to signal a "break" at the reformatory, will be tried as an air raid siren.

EMPLOYS 20 FOR SCHOOL POSTS

Board Hires 12 Teachers, Two Secretaries and 6 Others To Fill Vacancies.

Twelve teachers, two school administration secretaries, and six other school employes were hired last night by the Mansfield board of education. The board at the same time granted two teachers leaves-of-absence and accepted the resignation of one employe.

Employed as full-time teachers were Miss Catherine Darling, Perrysville, at John Simpson junior high school; Mrs. Allene Rachel, Shiloh, Johnny Appleseed junior hgih school; Miss Elizabeth M. Barnett, Belpre, O., colored, to teach colored pupils at Bowman school, and Mrs. Dale Rowan, Mansfield, Hedges school. Mrs. Rowan has been on leave-of-absence.

The board employed eight permanent substitute teachers at $125 per month. They were Mrs. A. LeMoine Derr, Mrs. Dean Rex, Mrs. Elizabeth Wappner, Mrs. Avis Rahn, Mrs. Gladys McVicar, Mrs. Thelma Davis, Mrs. Helen Rice, and Mrs. Freda Long, all of Mansfield.

Miss June Shufflebarger was employed as a secretary in the office of Supt. W. L. Miller and Mrs. Clifford Heaton as a secretary in the principal's office at Johnny Appleseed junior high school.

Others who were hired for school jobs included Charles C. Buckley as an assistant janitor; Frank Brannon, crib tool attendant at Senior high school, and four pupils, John Walters, Evelyn Schindler, Milka George, and Jimmie Miller for part-time work at the school buildings.

Miss Marjorie Gant, teacher at Johnny Appleseed junior high school, was granted a leave-of-absence to enlist in the U. S. Cadet Nurse service and Miss Louise Lynch, John Simpson teacher, because of illness. Mrs. Cleo Buchter resigned as cook at the West Fifth street school.

Schools To Turn Clocks Back One Hour Next Sunday

Mansfield public schools will turn their clocks back an hour next Sunday morning when the city returns to "slow" time, but the school schedule will remain the same, the board of education decided last night.

Grade and Senior high schools will continue to open at 9 a. m., and the junior high schools at 8:50 and 8:58 a. m., but of course the sun will be an hour higher when classes get under way and an hour nearer the horizon when school is out in the afternoon.

Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller pointed out that the opening and closing hours for the schools were changed last year so the pupils wouldn't jam the city buses when the workers in major industries are going to and from their jobs. By following the city in moving the clocks back, the schools will continue to operate on "off hours" so as not to conflict with the change of shifts at war plants.

INCREASE IN BINGO GAMES SEEN AS NEW LAW GOES INTO EFFECT

While Cleveland law enforcement officials predicted today that the new state anti-numbers law would bring a big increase in the number of bingo games, Police Chief Meade K. Bates said he preferred not to comment on the prospect of a bingo problem in Mansfield until "we see what happens."

Bates said he wanted to study the law which becomes effective today. It provides a $500 fine or six months in jail, or both, for a first offense for selling a "policy" or "numbers" ticket and a fine of $500 to $1,000 or a one-to-three year penitentiary term, or both, for a second offense.

Police and sheriff's officers over Ohio were puzzled over how they would differentiate between legal and outlawed bingo games, since the law legalizes bingo for religious and charitable purposes but outlaws it for personal gain.

Commenting on the problem that faces enforcement officers in uncovering the illegal operators, Bates added that "It's no wonder the numbers boys didn't do much to fight passage of the bill in the legislature."

Representative John L. Catlett of Mansfield battled for the anti-numbers bill, winning support for it and a re-hearing after it apparently had been side-tracked.

Detective Lt. David Kerr, Cleveland vice squad head, said "there will be at least 50 games in operation this afternoon, and that's only the beginning.

"There won't be a single vacant storeroom or clubroom in town in a month. I look for at least 200 games to be in operation in the near future.

"We will do everything we can to enforce the law, but it will be a gigantic task."

He added: "It will be very hard for the professional gamblers and other racketeers to keep their hands off such a juicy chance for big and quick profits."

Youngstown police reported policy games had closed weeks ago as an organized gambling venture and that the few still operating were using plain paper slips instead of lottery pads to make prosecution more difficult.

Reports were current in Toledo that all numbers houses would close.

Cincinnati put into effect an ordinance similar to the new state law and officials there indicated they would not interfere with bingo games and raffles conducted by religious, educational and charity groups.

DELANO LODGE GIVES UP ANNUAL YULE PARTY TO BUY WAR BONDS

Expressing their belief that bombs and bullets will be a greater Christmas gift than "tinsel and toys" for their kinfolk and coworkers in the armed forces, members of Delano lodge No. 169, United Steel Workers of America, today announced the purchase of $3,000 worth of Third War Loan Bonds, increasing their "back the attack" investment to $6,000.

Coincident with the announcement by William F. Bell, union president, came a report from Mrs. Bell, president of the local's auxiliary, that the ladies' organization had invested an additional $50 in war bonds, raising their holdings $150.

Every member of Delano lodge, it is reported, is a 10 per cent bond buyer through payroll deduction programs and that in addition many members of families are bond and stamp purchasers. The lodge purchased $3,000 worth of bonds in the first drive.

"We cannot conceive much Christmas cheer for our fighting men this year," President Bell declared. "Thus Delano lodge has decided to forego its annual Yule party. Let me note that we observed Labor day by remaining on our jobs, recognizing Labor's accepted holiday only by a state of mind. It is indicated that Delano members will present an abbreviated Christmas party this year for the pleasure of certain under-privileged groups.

Members of the board of control who voted unanimously for the bond purchase are Clarence Hansrote, chairman, Richard Shutt, Glen Speelman, John Sawyer, W. F. Goff, William Bittinger, Harry Bowman, Cecil Green, John Simmermacher, Carl Gaverich, Frank Wetzel and Floyd Welsh.

Harry Boyer, chairman of Delano's legislative committee, will be in Columbus this week-end for a tri-state price control conference.

YOUTH, 17, HELD

Circus Worker Questioned About Theft of Car.

A 17-year-old North Attleboro, Mass., youth who came to Mansfield Saturday with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus was held in the county jail today in connection with the theft of Park Superintendent Frank Burton's car from an East Fourth street parking place Saturday night.

The youth, who said he was accompanied by three other circus workers, was arrested yesterday in Sandusky after he had abandoned Burton's car because there was a flat tire on it. He told Sandusky police where the stolen car could be found, but he denied taking it, explaining that one of his companions had driven him to Sandusky in it.

Although the youth said the car had been driven 80 miles an hour on the trip to Sandusky, Burton said it apparently had not been damaged except for the tire. The three other youths who were said to have been in the car were not located.

Germans Say He's Gone Back To Italy, Assert Ciano Now Missing.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—German broadcasts reported today that Benito Mussolini had left Germany for northern Italy "after a conversation with the fuehrer lasting several days," in order to study developments on the spot.

The broadcast said Mussolini was expected to announce the composition of his newly proclaimed government within the coming week and was devoting his attention to reconstruction of the Fascist militia around which will be built a new Republican Fascist army.

Although Mussolini, in a speech attributed to him by the German radio Saturday denounced King Vittorio Emanuele and the House of Savoy, the radio said it was not certain that Mussolini would take upon himself the title of chief of state as well as chief of government.

After reporting several days ago the escape of Mussolini's son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, to Germany, the radio today declared it was untrue he had been rescued and he was presumed to be "missing." This apparently was an admission that Ciano was caught by Italian authorities before reaching the safety of Germany.

The radio said Carlo Scorza, former Fascist party secretary, also had "disappeared."

BATTLE OVER INSULT TO LASS

SECAUCUS, N. J.—(U.P.)—Boys in this town take their gallantry seriously

According to police a North Bergen and a Union City boy insulted a Secaucus girl. She told her Secaucus boy friends. They issued a challenge to North Bergen and Union City to 'come fight it out."

Youngsters between 14 and 17 descended on Secaucus one night from the two neighboring towns and met local boys by appointment at the blacked-out Lincoln school stadium.

There were 120 clawing bloody and battered boys one hour later when police arrived. The North Bergen-Union City contingent had been driven back by the Secaucusonians. Police rounded up their ripped shirts, wiped blood from a few noses and sent them on their way back home to ponder the advisability of insulting a young lady of Secaucus

"At first I was worried how I could comply with this NEW motor vehicle law—but my worries vanished when a HOOSIER Casualty representative showed me how easily, safely and economically I could be protected against costly judgments and attachments, and against losing my driver's license for 5 years—all simply by having an adequate automobile liability and property damage policy. Now it's fun to drive because I've avoided future regrets.

Berlin Threatens The Vatican With Radical Measures

Holy See the choice of deciding for or against Fascism. The broadcast said:

"The Vatican, the prelates, all the hierarchy of the church, from the pope down to the parish priests, have this choice: either with Fascist and Catholic Italy or against it. It is not a problem of consciences. It is a dilemma that is before the men of the church. It is not a problem of faith....

"The Vatican, with its preaching of pacifism and with its anti-German sentiments, has disturbed the Catholic consciences of the Fascist fighters," the Berlin announcer asserted.

The complaint of the Nazis and Fascists appeared to stem from the last speech by Pole Pius XII in which he expressed hope that the world would enjoy a just peace.

FACES BARBER CHARGE

TEACHERS GET PAY INCREASE

School Board Authorizes $25 Monthly Raise For Balance of Current Year.

every effort would be made to give employes the benefit of any funds the schools will have next year in excess of the established operating costs.

"We have every sympathy with the teachers and other school employes because we realize they are in the fixed-salary group and have not profited by high wartime wages," Arlin said.

With the pay boosts granted last night, the peak salary for Senior high school instructors for 1943 went to $2,355, approximately the amount the teachers received in 1929-30 when school salaries were highest.

The $25 monthly raise will have no effect on the base pay of teachers which was increased $90 a year in September, 1942. A $10 monthly raise, to carry through 1943, was granted last January. Neither of the increases authorized this year has applied to Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller.

Jeeps, Marching Soldiers Herald 'Army' Premiere

they will be joined by a marching platoon of 50 men and an army drum and bugle corps. The soldiers will give demonstrations for the public in front of the theater preceding the showing of the picture.

Lieut. Col. Frank E. Cheshire, commanding officer of Camp Mill-ard will also have a prominent part in the evening's program.

Mansfielders who have bought their tickets at $1.10, $3.30, or $5.50 have found it a satisfaction to know they are doing something to help the fighting men.

Here are a few ways Army Emergency Relief money is spent: Mrs. H. B. requested a loan in the amount of $50 for medical expenses. Her child was seriously ill and Mrs. B. was without funds due to non-receipt of family allowance. The loan was granted.

Cpl. W. C. S. requested a loan to cover the cost of transportation back to his station. He had expected an advance from his father to pay train fare but had not received it. A loan of $35 was granted.

Mr. T W. D. requested a loan to cover his living expenses pending first pay in a civilian job as he had just been discharged from the army on a certified disability discharge. A loan of $25 was granted.

scale fighting at Salamaua and Lae.

Japanese soldiers who fled north from Lae now are being added to the mounting list of enemy dead.

Today's communique told of effective air raids on enemy air installations at Finschhafen, 60 miles up the Huon peninsula from Lae, at Cape Gloucester, across Dampier strait on New Britain, 120 miles from Lae, and of extensive fighter activity in the north New Britain coastal area of Kimbe bay, roughly half way along the route to the choicest target on that island—the big air and shipping stronghold of Rabaul.

Scenes In Factory.

A tour of the enormous Vega aircraft factory in 30 or 40 seconds sounds impossible. Yet it is said to be accomplished in a sequence of the new Universal picture, "Here to Hold" now showing at the Madison theater. Deanna Durbin and Joseph Cotton are co-starred in the love story of a debutante and an army flier. The scenes showing Deanna in the role of an aircraft worker were actually taken in the huge Vega plant. Co-attraction is the government released "Report from the Aleutians," the actual on-the-scene record of our fighting men manning strategically important Aleutian Islands.

Unusual Lighting Effects.

One of the screen's most elaborate and intricate lighting jobs was carried out for the song number, "My Shining Hour" which Joan Leslie sings in "The Sky's the Limit" current at the Ohio theater. She is co-starred with Fred Astaire in RKO's filmusical. Each of the musical instruments used by the fifteen members of the Freddie Slack orchestra was outlined in neon lights. Then a sunburst of lights was constructed under a section of frosted glass flooring. With this special dimming and lighting effects are made as Miss Leslie sings.

MASS INVASION OF EUROPE DUE 'AT BEST TIME'

Churchill Defends Political Action of Allies In Italy.

umph over the U-boats in a four-month period when not a single merchant ship was lost in the North Atlantic and a two-weeks' period in which not a single one was lost throughout the world

But the Nazis apparently are bringing out a new secret weapon —in addition to self-propelling bombs used against our ships by Nazi airplanes—and a hard battle already has started with a U-boat attack now in progress against an Allied convoy.

In regard to the Mediterranean. Churchill said that American forces had landed in Sardinia to support Italians who drove out the Germans and that Allied naval forces are cooperating with Italians and French in fighting the Nazis in Corsica.

He described the American-British landing at Salerno as an outstanding feat in amphibious warfare but admitted that we cut it very fine indeed' and ran the risk of a grave setback

Indicating that Italy might be expected to enter the war against Germany and suggesting that other German satellite states might capitulate Churchill said that we are coming to the rescue and liberation of Italy "

Warning that "the bloodiest fortunes of war lie ahead" for the Allies, Churchill said there was no truth to charges of unwarranted delay in invading Italy

Reviewing briefly the Italian developments he disclosed that the original plan was for an American air-borne division to land in Rome for the government of Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio to hand over ousted Premier Benito Mussolini and for Badoglio to make peace

The suggestion that 40 days of time and the lives of many Allied soldiers were lost needlessly is 'as ill-founded in fact as it is wounding to those bereaved" he said There was never one moment lost The timing of the attack was fixed without reference to the attitude of the Italian government '

The sole limiting factor he said was preparation of landing craft

Even then Churchill said the invasion date was advanced from Sept 15 to Sept 9

Churchill addressed a crowded chamber in one of the most eagerly-awaited sessions of his career He was applauded loudly by members who had been sharp-shooting at the Italian situation for some days

Churchill started speaking at 12 20 p m (7 20 a m EWT) He said that he never has regarded the Allied operations in Africa as a substitute for a direct attack across the channel on the Germans in France or the Low Countries

'Opening of a new front on the Mediterranean was always intended to be an essential preliminary to the main attack against Germany and her ring of subjugated satellite states," he told commons

At Moscow Stalin was able to speak with confidence of Russia's ability to withstand the German attack and told me henceforward of the counterstroke by which he intended to relieve Stalingrad and if possible destroy the German forces before it

He recalled that almost exactly a year ago Marshal Erwin Rommel was decisively repulsed in Egypt

Churchill referred to almost unbroken successes by land sea and air during the last year and revealed that last May he and President Roosevelt decided that the principal objective was knocking Italy out of the war this year

No one in attempting to set a time limit or the task would have expected that it would have [illegible] he said [illegible] assisted [illegible] enormous [illegible] German [illegible] from [illegible] the war fronts into the defensive posture [illegible] remarkably [illegible]

[illegible] strategic [illegible] by Anglo [illegible] losses [illegible] in 1943 [illegible] planned well [illegible] be [illegible]

He revealed that not an Allied merchant vessel had been sunk by enemy action in the North Atlantic during a four month period ending Sept 18

He [illegible] the [illegible]

no Allied ships had been sunk by U-boats in any part of the world —a situation unprecedented either in this war or the last

"The U-boats have become active again and one convoy is being attacked at the present time,' he added however

The prime minister said that the Allies, including Russia, had displayed increasing mastery of the air and pointed out that the German air force had been driven increasingly on the defensive.

'We must expect that the terrible foe we are smiting so heavily will make frenzied efforts to retaliate," he warned

Churchill reported that the Germans are using a new type of aerial bombing on Allied shipping. He described it as "sort of a rocket assisted glider which is released from considerable height and apparently is guided towards the target by the parent aircraft"

'It might be that the Germans are developing other weapons on novel lines ' he said

German U boats he said have been entering the Atlantic during the last week or so from bases in France and Germany and doubtless have been fitted with some new apparatus

The balance of new building over all ship losses since the start of the war exceeds 6 000 000 tons, he announced

'Should favorable conditions hold we shall soon have replaced all losses suffered by the United Nations since the beginning of the war ' he said

He turned to the conferences with President Roosevelt at Quebec and revealed that most attention was given to prosecution of the war against Japan

Lord Louis Mountbatten, new Allied supreme commander for southeast Asia, will arrive shortly in India, accompanied by a staff modelled after Gen Dwight D Eisenhower's Mediterranean command Churchill revealed He said the headquarters would be established at New Delhi

He turned to the overthrow of Benito Mussolini and his Italian Fascist government on July 25 which he called a memorable day

We were naturally anxious to find some authority with whom we could deal so as to bring the unconditional surrender of Italy in the shortest time with the least possible cost in blood of our soldiers The Badoglio government came into existence with the intention of making peace '

Italy's envoys at Lisbon asked how they could join the United Nations against Germany he said and Anglo American representatives replied that they were only able to discuss unconditional surrender

He revealed that the Allies had planned to land an American airborne division in Rome simultaneously with the main invasion but that it was impossible due to investment of air fields by the Germans

Churchill said it was impossible for the Badoglio regiment to hand over Mussolini to the Allies before the invasion as it would have disclosed the invasion plan to the enemy and the Italians were in the position of still having to appear allies of Germany

' The Italian government took very carefully conceived measures to hold Mussolini but had not provided against a heavy parachute descent They had one card up their sleeves—the Carabineri guards had orders to shoot Mussolini if any attempt was made to rescue him but they failed in their duty "

The Soviet government studied the terms of the armistice and authorized Eisenhower to sign them in their name Churchill revealed

'Every effort has been made by the Badoglio government and its forces to comply with the armistice conditions ' Churchill said There is no doubt whatever on which side the sympathy hopes and efforts of the Italian nation now lies

The Italians and Corsicans are actively attacking the Germans in Corsica he said and this is the first time the French have been in action for the liberation of their home territory '

In one Corsican harbor he said, batteries are manned by both Italians and French The fighting in the harbor is being waged by Italian destroyers and a British submarine all shelling the Germans

The Berlin radio admitted the Smolensk battle was rising to a climax with Russian parachute troops dropping behind the German lines above the northern arm of the Dnieper river bend

The fall of Velizh not only flanked Smolensk but placed Red army spearheads within 10 miles of the White Russian border and on the rail line from Smolensk to only 15 miles northeast of Vitebsk Latvia The old Polish border is less than 115 miles to the west

NAZIS FLEEING SALERNO FRONT, WHEEL NORTH

Battle For Naples Expected as Soon as Kesselring Can Re-form Lines.

drawal of the Germans to the north to push further inland to a point about 20 miles from their original beachhead below Salerno

German troop and transport columns retreated northward along roadways east of the Salerno area to escape the advance of the main body of the British Eighth army advancing from the south. Immediately north of Salerno itself, however, there was no indication that the Nazi troops under command of Field Marshal General Albert Kesselring were withdrawing

The ferocity attending the early days of battle after the Yanks and Britons went ashore below Naples has died down and only intermittent clashes occur

It is clearly evident however that despite the terrific battering handed the Germans in the battle for the Salerno beachhead the last battle for full control of south-central Italy has not yet been fought

Although the Nazis are pulling back from east of the Salerno area there is no indication they plan to abandon such regions as Naples or the Foggia airdrome and railway center 80 miles northeast of Naples Observers see the present retreat northward over bomb-pitted roads as a precautionary withdrawal for formation of a battle line by which it is hoped to hold the impact of the combined strength of the Fifth and Eighth armies

There is no denial either that the Germans have been forced to drop back for breathing space after the mauling received from Allied naval and air power in conjunction with the American and British ground drive east from Salerno

The battle for Salerno bay cost the Germans heavily in casualties and their armored divisions lost at least 40 tanks to the Allied onslaught

The relentless march of the Eighth army north from the toe and heel of the boot forced the Germans out of Gioia Del Colle 28 miles northwest of the naval base at Taranto while on the west Gen Clark's units solidified their positions by adding the towns of Agropoli and Amalfi to their list of liberated points

American Liberators Smash at Venice

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA —(AP)— American Liberators threw new weight into the conquest of Italy today by bombing the historic port of Venice

Cairo headquarters, reporting the bombing of Venice, said one explosion caused there was followed by a column of smoke 5,000 feet high but the full results of the attack was obscured by clouds

Liberators based on the Middle East also hit railway yards and bridge approaches at the Adriatic port of Pescara

It was announced officially at Cairo also that the RAF had extended Allied air domination of the Mediterranean by landing on and starting operations from the Italian Dodecanese island of Coo (Cos)

Most of Corsica's Italian garrison of about 40 000 men has joined native guerillas and French troops landed from fast French warships in a fight to wipe out the German forces on the island, an official announcement said today.

Planes Wipe Out Nazi Motor Convoy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA — (AP) — The Northwest African Air Forces concentrated their attention yesterday on the Salerno battle area in Italy and without opposition practically wiped out a large convoy of enemy motor vehicles

Fifty gasoline and oil laden trucks traveling west of Potenza were bombed and strafed and when fighter bombers pulled away 30 big tank trucks were afire and others were damaged Other motor transport also was attacked, and the day's bag was 67 destroyed and as many damaged

Bombers attacked roads and railways within a short distance of the front and once again not a single German aircraft came up to try to stop them

Clamp Military Rule On Occupied Italy

LONDON—(UP)—The German army has imposed military rule on all large cities in northern and central Italy Italian frontier reports said today, apparently ignoring even the Fascist authorities whom it pretended to support

Italian legislation has been suspended entirely throughout the occupied area and Nazi laws were being enforced, a frontier dispatch said Such civil powers as remain have been entrusted to German consuls

French Commandos Fight For Corsica

LONDON — (AP) — French troops were battling on the soil of metropolitan France today for the first time since the collapse of the republic in the spring of 1940 as commandos from North Africa fought side by side with patriots of the mountainous island of Corsica against the German garrison

Announcement of the landing of the commandos, some of the forces which took part in the Tunisian campaign, came in a terse communique issued last night in Algiers by Gen Henri Giraud The communique gave no details of the fighting, but said it had "taken a favorable turn."

The Stockholm Svenska Dagbladet, publishing dispatches from German-controlled Marseille, said, however, that French forces had occupied Ajaccio, Corsica's capital and an air and naval base, after a sharp fight with the Germans

PLAN APPEAL FOR MARSHALL

Congress Leaders Ready To Plead Against Transfer of Chief of Staff.

of his control over the army Fully competent authority has informed International News Service that pro-British American citizens desire a chief of staff who will devote about 99 per cent of the U S war effort to the defeat of Hitler, including a direct invasion across the English channel even at the price of tremendous battle losses

No military secret is disclosed in reporting that General Marshall has disagreed at times with his British colleagues on the combined chiefs of staff. However, his military vision and long-range strategy has proven so successful that his British colleagues now admire and respect him, and constantly bow to his judgment.

Again, there is no military secrecy involved in stating that the United States chiefs of staffs have been in complete agreement at all times when they conferred with their British colleagues So it is obvious that in any disagreement with the British, Marshall had the complete support of Admiral Leahy, the president's chief of staff, Admiral Ernest J King chief of U S naval operations and General H H Arnold, chief of the army air forces

There is much speculation in Washington over the issue of invading Europe across the channel Some pro-British Americans, believing the British desire it, are urging it from time to time The Communists and their left-wing sympathizers are demanding it following the propaganda line from Moscow

Consequently, rumors are current that Marshall is being 'fired" because he opposes such an invasion

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

WASHINGTON—The last message of President Roosevelt was such an admirable and helpful report on the war that one hesitates to find any fault with it. Yet the silence about our relations with the French committee was disappointing.

We are going to need France. Even if a miracle should bring victory without an invasion of France, the French people would still be a most important factor in achieving Allied peace and security.

Clapper

In his message to congress, Mr. Roosevelt praised the Russians and the Chinese and distributed words of encouragement to all the victims of fascism and to the little satellite peoples longing for freedom in Rumania, Hungary, Finland and Bulgaria.

But no word to the French. No word to the French Committee of National Liberation whose divisions we are arming to help in France. No word of explanation or friendship toward the Frenchmen who have kept alive the spirit of resistance in France.

Why not say the friendly, encouraging things to Gen. De Gaulle? Why are we so careful not to say the words that will give the French people a greater feeling of pride in him and a stronger feeling of confidence that Allied forces are working together, and not against each other, for the liberation of France?

Russia has recognized the French Committee fully, instead of grudgingly as we have. And Moscow says kind words about Gen. De Gaulle. If we fear that he is slipping into too close relations with our ally Russia, where else have we been driving him by our scowling attitude?

This French affair has a long history. And it would be a good deal better for all of us if we would just let that history go into the safekeeping of the historians and devote ourselves to the present. Do we have to go on forever insisting that it was right to deal with Darlan? Most people think it was a good deal. Why not let it go at that? Nothing but a guilty conscience could keep anybody defending the Darlan deal this length of time. It got us what we wanted, so let's get on. Now it is Gen. De Gaulle who can get us what we want—or come nearer to it than any other Frenchman.

What do we want? We want the French people to get up on their hind legs and kick the hell out of the Nazis as soon as the Allies come in. We don't want them to become all tangled up like Badoglio and the little king did in their own spaghetti.

Gen. De Gaulle is temperamental. He annoys even such a patient man as Anthony Eden who has been in his corner. He has exasperated Churchill and Roosevelt beyond words. But there are also some others in the war, some other Allied leaders, who are not exactly easy to get along with. Yet we try to be patient and understanding, and we certainly overlook no opportunity to tell them what a great thing they are doing.

Now Gen. De Gaulle, with all of his temperamental faults, is the only Frenchman in sight who has any political force, who has anything of what it takes to lead mass French resistance to the Nazis. He has an excellent military man in Gen. Giraud—a man who is organizing what evidently are efficient French divisions. He has no interest in political leadership and no flair for it. But with De Gaulle rallying the French people, and Giraud as the military commander, we have a team that can pull a good deal of weight in the Allied boat. And when we try to crack France, every bit of it will be needed.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—If, by popular vote or action of congress, the people of the United States should decide that the members of any particular group among us, say freckle-faced or pigeon-toed people, or tenors or cartoonists, should be forbidden to hold office, own property or vote, would that be an undemocratic action?

Surely, it would violate our concept of the American way but it would not be undemocratic, although most of us probably believe it would be. Under democracy, the will of the barest majority is the law for all and, by a gradual process you could narrow things down so that in time even a majority of the people would be without rights and governed by the will of the few and for the benefit of the few.

Pegler

First you disqualify the members of a race, then the believers in a creed, then one more group after another, each time by a majority of the popular vote of the remaining citizens or by a majority vote of the chosen representatives in congress. And, finally, you could have here a fair reproduction of the Hitler state, arrived at through the processes of democracy.

Georgia's recent decision, wise or unwise, to enfranchise kids of 18, points out that we do place limitations on the rights of classes of human beings. In some cases, it is very unjust to deny an intelligent, decent kid of 18 the right to vote or even the right to hold public office while his opposite number, some illiterate, useless old drunkard, let us say, is allowed to vote, and, theoretically, is qualified for the presidency. We could without violating the principles of democracy, decide that persons above the age of 60 or the top draft age, 38, are no longer qualified to exercise the privileges of citizenship. For a long period of the life of this republic, slavery was a legal and respected institution and in 1861 a constitutional amendment was proposed which would have forbidden the people, themselves, ever to adopt the 13th amendment, ratified four years later, abolishing slavery. It failed, of course, but had it been adopted, it would then have been unconstitutional to abolish an institution which has been widely and deeply abhorred as undemocratic although it is nothing of the kind. And it was not until 1920 that women were granted the right to vote.

Our constant tendency has been toward greater extension of the rights of citizenship but that is something that comes out of the nature of our people and it is not inherent in democracy at all. We could go sharply into reverse without violating democracy. We could re-establish slavery and disenfranchise women by pure democratic procedure.

You may think I am obsessed, which is neither here nor there, but we have gone into reverse in some of our unions and with the tacit approval and connivance of our government. Many unions have what they call B-class and C-class subsidiaries and, in their big national conventions, violate the principle defined by a cockney cab driver at a time when reform was rife in England as the principle of "one bloody man, one bloody vote." These B-class and C-class locals are robot groups having one vote per unit, even though there be 5,000 members in the unit. But the locals of the aristocracy, which live by the Hitlerian principle of the master race, are represented by one vote per member in their national conventions. The unioneers who defend this ratio would call you a dirty fascist if you were to suggest that any element of our people be limited to class-B or class-C citizenship with only one 5-1000th of a vote in public elections, with skill or occupation as the basis of this rating, which is the basis they use in their unions.

FIGHT BREWING OVER USE OF RATION TOKENS

OPA Official Calls New Plan Unnecessary, Others Claim It's Simpler.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A fight within the office of price administration over the proposed use of ration tokens to supplement the present stamp rationing of food loomed today.

One high official of the agency described the proposal as "wholly unnecessary" and said that he would protest its adoption to Price Administrator Pretiss M. Brown.

The plan for issuing tokens as "change" for food ration coupons was developed during Brown's absence on an extended vacation and reportedly has not yet received his final approval.

An aid to the OPA chief said that no significance should be attached to the fact that the token program was unveiled during Brown's visit to Michigan, since it first had been discussed six months ago. He conceded, however, that there was opposition to it.

Opponents of the proposal made two particular charges against it:

1. It would provoke widespread ration counterfeiting, with tokens easier to duplicate than stamps and no registration required to obtain them.

2. Institution of a new system at this stage would merely complicate the rationing program and confuse consumers.

"The token plan is wholly unnecessary," one official asserted. "The present stamp program is working smoothly and the people are accustomed to its operation."

Proponents of the token program defended it, however, as "a simpler and more decentralized program of food rationing."

For example, one ration stamp could be valued at 64 points and the retailer would issue tokens in change when it was presented with purchases of food. The consumer would use these tokens until another stamp came due.

OPA General Manager Chester Bowles said recently that the system of tokens would be put into effect as soon as practicable, probably during the early winter months.

PROBE SHOOTING

Ashland Officials Investigate Death of Woman, 60.

ASHLAND— Sheriff's deputies today were investigating the death of Mrs. William G. Cooner, 60, of near Ashland, who suffered fatal gunshot wounds in her head last Saturday and died at her home shortly after the arrival of a physician.

Heading the investigation in the absence of Sheriff Dale Hammond who is out the city, Deputy Sheriff M. F. Rickenbrod said the death certificate would show that Mrs. Cooner's death resulted fr... "gunshot wound inflicted in t... temple by a 38-caliber revolver."

Dr. Harry T. Martin, acting coroner, said death was the result of the wounds but he did not indicate that it was a suicide case. He told The News-Journal today that "further investigation will be made, but there's nothing to indicate there was any one else in the house when the shot was fired."

School Pupils To Compete In State Poetry Contest

Mansfield's young poets are busy at work on entries in the contest sponsored by the local Poetry Guild headed by Mrs. Helen Loomis Linham.

The contest is one of the features of the Ohio Poetry Day celebration culminating in a poetry fair Oct. 8. This annual poetry day, believed to be the only state celebration of its kind, was founded by Mrs. Tessa Webb.

The contest is open to pupils at the St. Peter's school, Mansfield Senior high, Johnny Appleseed and John Simpson Junior high schools. Members of the guild will be judges of the contest.

One junior and one senior high student will be selected from the group to compete in the state contest but additional local prizes will also be given.

Mrs. Linham has been chosen by the state board of education to manage the poetry contest in the schools here.

HIGH BRITISH OFFICIAL DIES

Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of Exchequer, Popularized Telephones In England.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood died today.

The 63-year-old British official had held the post of chancellor of the exchequer since May 1940.

Sir Kingsley, who had a long and varied career in administrative offices, was for two years prior to his appointment as overseer of the government purse strings Britain's secretary of state for air.

He was diminutive in stature and called "cherub" by British caricaturists.

His capabilities as an administrator were proved in his capacity first as postmaster general and later as minister of health. In the former post he popularized the use of telephones in Britain by introducing calls anywhere in Great Britain for the price of one shilling after 7 p. m. He was credited with a big rise in the use of telephones by means of publicizing postoffice services.

As minister of health Sir Kingsley sponsored a move to close all stores at an early hour in the evening to guard the welfare of the employes.

Sir Kingsley began his career as a barrister, starting his law career at the age of 22. He was knighted in 1918, the same year he became a member of parliament.

CITIZENS URGE VOTE ON LEVY

Offer Way Out As 37,000 Are Kept Out Of Toledo Schools.

TOLEDO—(U.P.)—A Toledo citizens' committee recommended today that a schoo' operation levy be placed on the November ballot if the board of education has exhausted all means of borrowing money to meet wage demands of striking maintenance employes in the city's schools.

Three unions, the Operating Engineers, Building Service Employes and Firemen and Oilers, all AFL, continued a strike begun Wednesday which has closed schools to approximately 37,000 students.

Mansfielders who want to send money to soldiers and sailors outside of this country are urged to send it through postal money order. These are the instructions received here today by the local Red Cross chapter. It was explained that it is practically impossible for an American soldier overseas to cash a check drawn on a bank in the United States. Red Cross workers overseas report that soldiers constantly ask them to cash check sent from this country. Cashing them is almost impossible, so the soldiers receiving such checks find them valueless. On the other hand, postoffice money orders can be cashed wherever there is an army postoffice.

A former Mansfield woman, Mrs. Charity Mae Martin, who has a war job in Yuma, Ariz., today asked Clerk John H. Mrs. Martin, believed to have attended school in Mansfield, said her husband's parents may be in the Mansfield area, and she must have information regarding their whereabouts in order to hold her government job. She said her husband is in the army and she has heard nothing from him for a long time. She did not list the names of her husband's parents, giving Eisaman nothing with which to start his search. Mrs. Martin's address is 439 Maiden Lane, Yuma, Ariz.

OPENS NURSERY SCHOOL OCT. 4

Board Takes Action After 16 Register For Care of Small Children.

Mansfield's first nursery school for the children of war workers will open Oct. 4 at John Simpson junior high school, under a program set up last night by the board of education, sponsor of the project.

Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller said last night that 16 registrations have been received at his office and he hopes to have at least 20 when the nursery project gets under way. Parents may register their children at the superintendent's office.

Requiring a staff of five persons to maintain it, the nursery will be open to children who will be at least two and not more than five and half years old Oct. 1, if their mothers are employed in war industries.

A fee of 50 cents per day for each child enrolled will be charged to pay for noon lunches and fruit juices which will be made available to the children in mid-morning and mid-afternoon. The 50-cent charge leaves no profit for the sponsor, Supt. Miller said.

The Federal Works Agency last June granted the Mansfield schools $19,200 to help finance the nursery program.

The school, in charge of two teachers, two assistants, and a housekeeper, will occupy rooms on the first floor of the John Simpson building.

The nursery regulations require that every child who is enrolled must have a certificate of successful vaccination against small pox and a record of a thorough physical examination. Tentative schedule for the nursery calls for operation between 7 a. m. and 6 p. m., but the time may be changed if other hours are more convenient, the school board indicated last night.

TABER URGES REMOVAL OF ELMER DAVIS

OWI Made Target of Economy Drive as Congressmen Get Out Scissors.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The Office of War Information was set up today as the target for the first economy drive of the fall session of congress.

"Their operations are a continuing menace," said Rep. Taber of New York, ranking Republican on the house appropriations committee. He urged a reorganization of OWI and removal of its administrator, Elmer Davis.

The New Yorker, who led last summer's fight which resulted in virtual extinction of OWI's domestic service, told reporters he believed Davis should be replaced by "a trained executive."

"Mr. Davis has neither the capacity nor the desire to reorganize the agency," he said. "We need to put some kind of a business specialist at work down there to get things in order."

Taber also criticized the OWI overseas activities, which he charged were "getting worse instead of better," and emphasized that his views on Davis applied also to Robert Sherwood, playwright head of the overseas division.

Given approximately $33,000,000 out of a request for $48,000,000 last summer, OWI is understood to have gone before the budget bureau already for approval of a request to congress for additional funds.

Legislation to abolish the agency outright and transfer its functions to the state department is pending before a house committee, but no immediate action is expected. It was introduced by Rep. Barry (D-NY).

From Rep. Johnson (D-Okla.), a member of the appropriations subcommittee on deficiencies, came a warning that not only OWI but all other agencies not directly tied in with the war effort face difficulty in obtaining more funds from congress.

Johnson, whose committee started hearings today on supplemental funds for maternal and child care for dependents of service men, said he favored "giving the army and navy every dollar they need but trimming to the bone and then some the agencies not engaged in handling was activities."

STAYS AWAY

Jones Fails To Testify on Food Bickering Reports.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Food Administrator Marvin Jones cancelled his scheduled appearance today before the house agriculture committee, which had called him to explain reports of bickering between his agency and the Office of Price Administration (OPA).

A spokesman for Jones said he decided not to testify today because he "felt he was unable to give the committee the best possible information at this time."

Rep. Rizley (R., Okla.), a committee member, said he was puzzled by Jones' failure to appear. "I don't know whether it's because Jones doesn't have a definite plan or whether he doesn't want to face a barrage of questions."

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1943.

Man-power and woman-power are about used up, but there's still quite a bit of boy-power available.

If the war has done nothing else, at least it has taught the importance of not judging people by appearance. A German refugee, now in New York, was thrown with Hitler 20 years ago, and thought him of no account. "He looked," said the refugee, "just like an unemployed doorman."

Keep Your Hands Off!

IT SEEMS to be a habit among American political leaders not to be satisfied to leave anything the way it is.

If they worked for changes only when the situation was bad, that would be all right. But seemingly they can't do that. Even when things are good, they have to change them. Or try to change them. Probably because they fear the people who are doing the good jobs will become too strong.

And that, to some political minds, is bad.

The case of General George Marshall, chief of staff of United States army forces, is an example.

Here is the man who has supervised the training and equipping and supplying of an American army that has grown from less than 200,000 men some six years ago to a force of more than 7,000,000 today. He has been responsible for everything the army has done.

If we had not thrown the Germans and Italians out of North Africa, it would have been his fault, ultimately. If we had failed in the invasion of Sicily, it would have been his fault. If we had not been able to send men and supplies in sufficient quantities to team up with the navy in turning back the Japanese in the Pacific, it would have been his fault. If our landing in Italy had resulted in disaster, it would have been his fault.

But our army has not failed. It has accomplished what it has been ordered to do up to the moment. Our casualties, while not light, have been less than had been anticipated. Therefore, our men must not have been too inadequate, their equipment not too shoddy and their strategy and tactics not too badly devised. So if there is any ultimate credit for the achievement of our troops, it belongs to Gen. Marshall.

So, what happens?

"Powerful influences" in Washington, the news reports say, are working to have him assigned to the post of commander-in-chief of Allied forces in the European theater, based on Great Britain for an invasion of the continent.

It is easy to see then that he would be taking orders from someone else as American chief of staff. It would amount to being "kicked upstairs." In plainer language, he would be out of the road of those who don't agree with his policies.

These "powerful influences" are not identified. But the prevalence of talk in Washington leaves little doubt that they are at work and that they are political in origin.

Some Washington sources say British influence lies behind the move to transfer Gen. Marshall.

It would seem that the British had enough trouble getting their own army into competent hands to warrant warning them that any interference on their part in our selection of a high command isn't appreciated.

If there has been bungling in the American conduct of the war, certainly the major blame lies not with the heads of the armed forces but with the political side of the picture.

The latter has more blots on its record than the high command of the army.

Nor is Gen. Marshall the only American general officer who has felt the lash of political power. Gen. Douglas MacArthur felt it before him.

Here are two of America's most capable military men, shouldering tremendous responsibilities, now being annoyed with the yapping of politicians at their heels.

Americans want to win this war—and as quickly as possible. They don't want to have the prosecution of the war made a tool in the hands of "powerful influences" who will use that tool for their own benefit and profit, without regard for the men who do the actual fighting or the people who pay the bills.

Americans are sending their sons to the armed forces and buying bonds and paying higher taxes and doing all they're asked to do.

They have a right to expect those "powerful influences" to desist from throwing monkey wrenches into the machinery.

If it can be shown that Gen. Marshall has failed at his job, he can be removed.

This is no time to play politics with the war.

Ready For the Offense

IT MAY have taken a little time, but the country now has the answer to the question it asked repeatedly after the war with Japan broke out. "Where's our fleet?"

Our fleet—nearly knocked out at Pearl Harbor—is in being. It is the largest surface fleet the world has ever known, and it has more planes than any navy ever had before.

Actually, it didn't take very long to build that fleet, when you consider the length of time it used to take to build a fighting ship. From slightly over 100 fighting ships in 1940 to more than 600 in 1943 represents a tremendous shipbuilding achievement.

And the navy tells us that it is now adopting a "strategy of attack." Heretofore, because we could do nothing else, the navy has been a defensive weapon, chiefly.

Those days are gone forever.

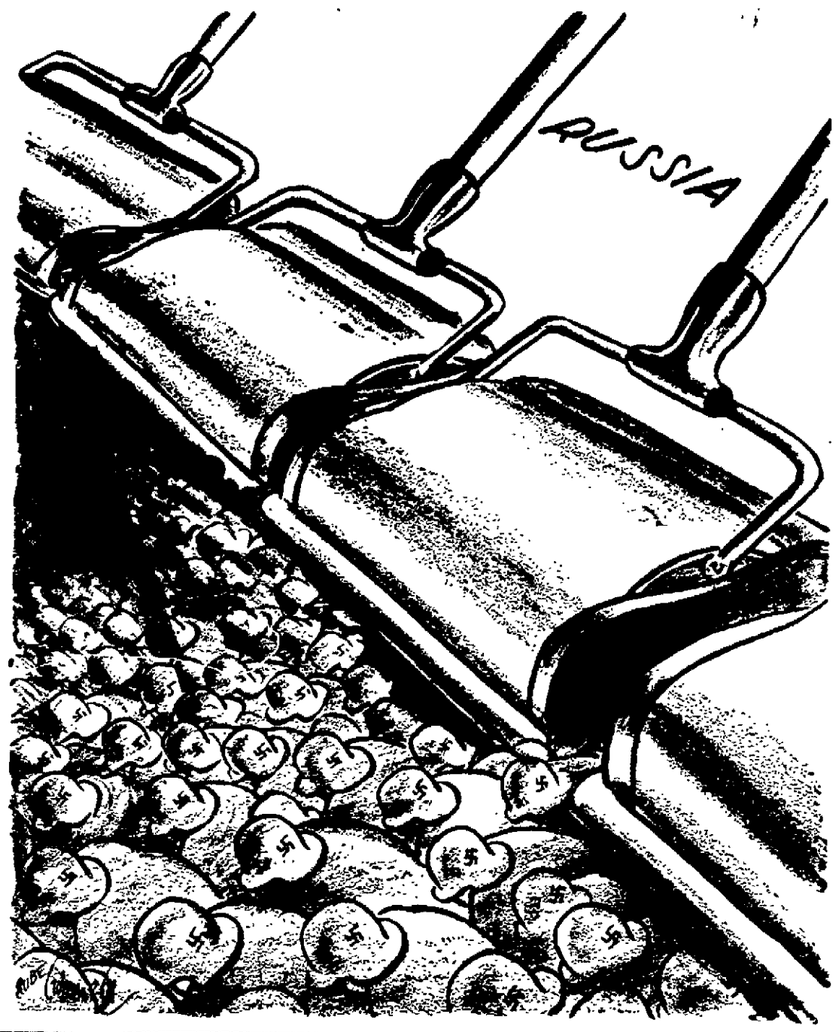
Take notice, Tojo.

Teamwork By U. S. and Canada

EXTENT to which Canadians and "Yanks" are now combined in the Dominion is not fully realized. An illuminating example appeared recently when a "streamlined Canadian force" was sent to Kiska along with American troops. A simple and straightforward explanation was given by the Canadian commander, Brig. H. W. Foster. "In our eyes," he said, "this is home defense. Home defense no longer means a man with a rifle sitting on his own doorstep, for our homes can be attacked by bombers from 2,000 miles away. It is a new interpretation, to be sure. But not a voice was raised when he informed the men where they were going."

He added the impressive statement that those Canadians had come to the Aleutians "to fight side by side with American troops for the first time since the Revolutionary war." Even weapons and clothing are interwoven. And all this is done presumably with the approval of the imperial British authorities at Ottawa.

THE BIG SWEEP.



Lae's Capture Ranks With Best European War Theater News

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

THE Red drums continue to roll out their message of the smashing of Hitler's greatest battle-line, and still more of the house that Adolf built on the Mediterranean sands has collapsed over the week-end, but we shouldn't let these events in neighboring Europe blind us to the significance of General MacArthur's brilliant coup in the capture of the Jap base of Lae on the fetid island of New Guinea half way round the globe.

As the crystal ball reads, the conquest of Lae and its brother base of Salamaua presages important developments in the near future. I think we can begin to look for another big naval and air engagement to grow out of the present situation.

Further indication that we are witnessing the beginning of a new phase of Allied offensive in the South Pacific is seen in the attack by strong American naval forces at the week-end on Tarawa island in the Gilbert group, and on Nauru island west of the Gilberts. The waters of the South Pacific are beginning to boil.

President Roosevelt in his message to congress called pointed attention to the fact that the position "has become a threat on our part against the Japanese in the seas that lie north of the Solomons and north of New Guinea." MacArthur having personally directed this fresh operation against New Guinea, part of the time from a Flying Fortress over the smoking-hot jungles, also has said that the Lae victory is a serious blow to the Japs.

"With God's help we are making our way back," he said in a special announcement. He of course had reference to the Philippines, which he has sworn to redeem.

Now that's strong testimony, coming as it does from the commander in chief in Washington, and his captain in the far Pacific, and the significance of it is this. The New Guinea coast on which Lae is situated (please get out the maps!) lies close to the Island of New Britain where the Japs have their powerful base of Rabaul. This base is the key to all the islands which they hold in the New Guinea and Solomons area.

Lae gives MacArthur a springboard from which to strike at Rabaul. Important as Rabaul is, however, MacArthur already is looking across it to another much bigger prize some 800 miles farther north. That's the island of Truk where the Nipponese have the most powerful naval base of their mandated island group. The waters of that stronghold are headquarters for a big part of the mikado's fleet which isn't in home waters.

Possession of the strategic island of Truk—which we propose to have—will put us in a highly favorable position for naval operations towards the Philippines, the East Indies and Japan herself. But capture of Truk must mean another great naval battle, unless the little men of Nippon run away.

The United States navy is eager for a showdown, but the Japs have shown little eagerness for another major clash with Uncle Sam's fleet. Still, that battle is bound to come. When it does it's likely to fairly well settle the naval argument outside Japan's home waters where they are holding the main fleet as a vital protection for their tiny island kingdom. In this connection it's important to note that the Japs have been steadily slipping in both naval and air strength, as they haven't been able to replace the great losses which we have been inflicting on them.

It isn't unlikely that the offensive which is steadily growing in the southwest Pacific may be coordinated with the projected drive against Burma. Mr. Roosevelt in his message reaffirmed that "after a long period of defensive strategy in Burma, we are determined to take the offensive there." At the best, a major amphibious assault on Burma can't be expected for some weeks yet, since the monsoon season with its deluge of rain is only now coming to a close. Once the dry weather arrives, it still will take much time to get a great expedition under way.

One would expect that under normal conditions Lord Louis Mountbatten, commander of the Burma show, and General MacArthur would coordinate their efforts, so as to split the Japanese naval and air forces.

Dave Boone Says:

SEEING pictures of Mussolini in a plain, soft hat and ordinary street clothes made you realize how important a uniform was in making him impressive. Without the proper costume effects he sure looks small time.

This is all that Benito asks the Italians to do:

1—Take up your arms again at the side of Japan and Germany.

2—Reconstruct the army.

3—Get rid of all Italians who are not for me.

4—Re-establish the Fascist state.

5—Form your battalions just as they were before July 25.

Can't you imagine the Italians asking, "Are you sure that's all you want today, mister?"

That speech was full of laughs. "I hesitated some time before speaking to you," he said. "I needed some little time for retirement." I don't know how much time he needed for it but he's going to get plenty.

Congress Leaders Girding for Protest on Marshall's Transfer

WASHINGTON—Members of the senate and house military affairs committees are lodging strong protests with the war department over the impending transfer of Gen. George Marshall from chief of staff to Allied commander-in-chief for the second front in western Europe.

They regard this as an attempt to get Marshall out of the picture as far as the Burma, Italian and South Pacific campaigns are concerned. For when he loses the key post of chief of staff and becomes commander-in-chief in western Europe, he will be in charge of only that one operation, cannot supervise the entire American army on all fronts.

Friends of Gen. Marshall are indignant over his impending transfer, and he himself is none too happy. Senatorial friends attribute the shift to the British, who are reported to have had some stiff altercations with Marshall over a western front.

Gen. Marshall long has thought that the quickest way to Berlin was across the English Channel, while Churchill has publicly favored the "soft underbelly" approach via North Africa and Italy.

Senators and congressmen who oppose Gen. Marshall's transfer are among those who have supported Roosevelt's war and foreign policies most vigorously and believe they have a right to be heard now. If they fail to make an impression on Secretary Stimson they may introduce legislation to make Marshall chief of the armies, a title still nominally held by Pershing, and which would make Marshall supreme over every other American officer.

Note: Gen. Marshall has recommended Gen. Eisenhower to replace him as chief of staff. However, Gen. E. B. Somervell, Army supply officer, is an old friend of Harry Hopkins.

Quezon On the Job.

It's bad news for the Japs that President Quezon of the Philippines is back in Washington. They knew—though it was not generally realized in Washington—that Quezon had suffered a relapse of his old illness, tuberculosis, which has plagued him off and on for 20 years.

Quezon was a well man at the time of Pearl Harbor. But confinement in the dampness of Corregidor, during the Jap attack, brought the illness back again. That was one reason MacArthur urged him to return to the U. S. in a submarine. When he came to Washington, Quezon was advised to take things easy. Instead he rushed into the official activities of Philippine Commonwealth affairs, not sparing himself.

His physicians advised him not to remain in Washington during the summer of 1942, nor last winter. But he remained nevertheless. Result was that last spring he suffered a further relapse.

Specialists were summoned, and Quezon was given the stern advice that he would have to get out of the humid climate of Washington immediately, if he wanted to live. Yielding to pressure, he went to Saranac, N. Y., and submitted himself to a rigid discipline during most of the past summer.

Quezon led the life of an invalid, sitting in the sunshine in a wheel chair, listening to the radio, or to his nurses as they read to him. Results of this regime was that the tuberculosis was arrested, and Quezon gained 12 pounds.

When the Japs heard of his relapse, they were ready to say to the people of the Philippines, where Quezon is still highly popular, "Look, this is the skeleton you pin your hopes to."

But today, Quezon is back on his feet and back at his desk, still hoping to realize his one great ambition, to see U. S. and Philippine forces march into Manila.

Baldwin Wants to Know.

When Jim LeCron resigned from the Rockefeller office with he received a telephone call from his old friend, Calvin B. Baldwin, who, on the same day, had been appointed by the State department as economic boss for Italy. Both men were Henry Wallace proteges and long-time friends.

"What do you mean," said Baldwin, "by criticizing my State department!"

"I hope you can make the wheels go 'round, Beany," replied LeCron.

This proved to be an ill omen of the grief to which Baldwin fell heir. He is being urged to go overseas promptly, but declines to budge until the question of authority is straightened out. Otherwise, he would find, in his overseas base, the same confusion which exists in Washington.

Although Baldwin is supposed to be the chief, no less than seven agencies have their fingers in his pie. Including the State department, they are Lease-Lend, OEW, Treasury, War, Navy, and the Lehman Office (Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation).

Baldwin wants an answer to the simple question of whether he is to direct American economic activities in Italy, or merely to co-ordinate the activities of others. If he is to be merely a co-ordinator, he will get into as much confusion in Italy as State department's Robert Murphy did in North Africa. Furthermore, U. S. agencies would be in a weakened condition in dealing with the British who have sense enough to unify their overseas operations.

Merry-Go-Round.

Argentine Ambassador Espil, one of the ablest diplomats Washington has seen since Jusserand, recently was offered the post of Argentine ambassador to London. But because of difficult relations with the U. S., he decided to stay on in Washington. A great admirer of the U. S. A. and an unhappy advocate of Argentine-U. S. co-operation, he has told his government that his resignation was available any time they wanted to accept it . . . Folks down in Mississippi, where George Allen hasn't voted for years, are wondering where he gets his qualifications to be secretary of the Democratic National committee. Maybe its because he is the nephew of "Private" John Allen, who as a congressman once persuaded a Republican congress to vote a fish-hatchery for Tupelo, Miss. . . . At least one thing everyone in the State department agreed upon was the vigorous note to Argentine refusing lend-lease. It was drafted before Sumner Welles resigned as Undersecretary of State . . . Clark H. Minor, president of International General Electric, has gone to London to confer with the Perelli company, biggest electric manufacturing firm in Italy, regardnig the transfer of Perelli subsidiary in Brazil to International General Electric. The Brazilian government seized the Perelli subsidiary, but now Perelli wants International General Electric to take it over for safe-keeping . . . Looks as if the international cartels were lining things up again.

Prairie Wind and Snakes Made Lasting Impression On Writer—Even to the Whipping He Suffered.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia.—It was soon after crossing into Iowa, coming south, that I gradually became conscious of the wind.

I don't know whether you know that long, sad wind that blows so steadily across the thousands of miles of midwest flat lands in the summertime. If you don't it will be hard for you to understand the feeling I have about it. Even if you do know it, you may not understand. Because maybe the wind is only a symbol.

But to me the summer wind in the midwest is one of the most melancholy things in all life. It comes from so far, and it blows so gently and yet so relentlessly; it rustles the leaves and the branches of the maple trees in a sort of symphony of sadness, and it doesn't pass on and leave them still; no, it just keeps coming like the infinite flow of Old Man River.

Maybe it's a bad job, me trying to make you see something that only I can ever feel. It is just one of those petty impressions that will form in a child's mind, and grow and stay with him through a lifetime.

So let's drop the wind, and talk about snakes. There's another impression that has come up with me out of childhood. I have a horror of snakes that verges on the irrational, induced in equal quantities by a 6-inch garden snake and a 6-foot rattler.

Ask my mother about snakes. She'll tell you the snake story, probably. In all the years I have been away, she never fails to tell it over again when I am there on a visit.

I was a little fellow, maybe 4 or 5. My father was plowing at the far end of our farm, a half-mile from the house. I was walking along behind the plow.

He was plowing near a weedy fence-row. Red, wild roses were growing there. I asked my father for his pocket-knife, so I could cut some of the roses to take back to the house.

He gave it to me, and went on plowing. I sat down in the grass and started cutting off the roses. Then it happened in a flash. A blue racer came looping through the grass at me. I screamed, threw the knife away, and ran as fast as I could.

Then I remembered my father's knife. I crept back over the plowed ground till I found it. He had heard me scream and had stopped. I gave him the knife, and started back to the house.

I approached the house from the west side. There was an old garden there, and it was all grown up in high weeds. I stopped and shouted for my mother. She came out and asked what I wanted. I asked her to come and get me. She said for me to come on through by myself. I couldn't have done that if it had killed me not to.

While Ernie Pyle rests after his strenuous task of covering the war in North Africa and Tunisia, several of his favorite columns are being re-printed. This is one of them.

She ordered me to come through, and I began to cry. She told me if I didn't stop crying, and didn't come through, she would whip me. I couldn't stop, and I couldn't come through. So she came and got me. And she whipped me.

That evening, when my father came in, she told him about the crazy boy who wouldn't walk through the weeds and had to be whipped. And then my father told her about the roses and the knife and the snake. It was the roses, I think, that hurt her so. My mother cried for a long time that night after she went to bed.

It has been more than 30 years since that happened, but to this day when I go home my mother sooner or later will say, "Do you remember the time I whipped you because you wouldn't walk through the weeds?" and then she will tell me the story, just as I have told it here.

Orchids for Mother

ADVICE keeps coming in for the farm mother whom I told you about last week—the one with four school children and a desire to do something more patriotic. The vote is almost unanimously in support of her present policy—staying at home to help on the farm and to be there when the children get home from school.

"Any mother who 'raises' four children—not just lets them grow up—already wears a uniform. She is automatically a nurse, doctor, laundress, bookkeeper, seamstress, chauffeur, and former school teacher—how many war workers can qualify for that many jobs?" writes another ex-schoolteacher. "There is the cause of our much talked of delinquency problem—too many parents working for money instead of taking care of the children they brought into the world. (I don't mean a mother who is widowed or has some very good reason for working.)"

Another—'A Reader' from Newark, O.—says: 'She is as patriotic as her sisters and sisters-in-law—she cared for the boy who was sick better than a doctor could—she is there when the children come from school. Don't you know every child calls for his mother when he comes home, and the husband looks forward after his day's work to seeing his wife meet him with a smile? That is what makes a home—not only a place to stop off at! She is a brave woman and a good mother. Money isn't everything. Love, faith in God and family is more."

A farmer dips his blunt tipped pen—"Stay home, little lady and take the milk in every morning. You are doing a better job for our country. I have eight fine sons—two in the service—three daughters, and a sensible wife. I know what soldiers have to say about mothers leaving homes for socalled "war work." I'd feel like Jim does—wouldn't want my children to be denied a mother's care for the sake of a little extra money."

Then he adds a postscript: "My good wife says tell you to look around at some of the children who have lost their mothers to war work—we have some in our neighborhood—and see how they are going. If you stay home, your children can never blame you for neglecting them when they needed you."

And, last, on an engraved correspondence card, in a woman's fine hand writing, this—"Orchids to the farm mother who knows where her duty is—but why not the beauty shop, too, if it'll make her feel better? Wives, as well as machinery, need upkeep. Why not buy her a new book, Jim, or a hair-do, or a primrose for her window sill? She'd like it—and most, from you."
